7th ANNUAL BABY DERBY ON SATURDAY, MAY 3rd

There was a time when it was considered fortunate to be born with a silver spoon in your mouth but any baby born this Saturday, May 3rd, between 12:01 a. m. and 12 p. m. will indeed be lucky because its proud parents will be the recipients of an award that will certainly be worthwhile and appropriate.

The famous baby derby conducted by the Acme Super Markets and American Stores grows each year in appeal and popularity and is a fitting climax to National Baby Week. This will be the 7th annual Baby Derby and all babies in this area on Saturday, May 3rd, will be eligible to receive a generous Gift Package of baby foods.

To obtain this Gift Package the Father, Aunts, Uncles, Relatives, Friends, Doctor or Nurse need merely fill in the special coupon which will be found in the Acme Markets or American Stores advertisement in this newspaper and mail it to the address shown in the coupon not later than May 17th.

Then, after the lists have been compiled and checked, the big prize box of baby food of every description will be delivered to the mother at her home.

NO CHANGE IN EUB PASTORS IN THE COUNTY

Eleven pastors have been assigned to new charges and four others ordained by the Evangelical United Brethren Church at its two day Eastern Pennsylvania Conference which closed at Reading.

No changes were made in pastorates of Lancaster county churches.

PAPER 75 YEARS OLD

Monday, April 28 marked the 75th anniversary of the Lancaster New Era. Poet William Cullen Bryant wrote that he hoped the paper would mark "the new order of things." Would that he were alive today to see some of these "new orders."

Clean Up Made Easy

Joy of joys! Now they have eliminated the hard labor of cleaning brushes after the paint job is done. The answer to this homeowner's headache comes in the form of a new paint that washes out of brushes with a simple rinse in soapy water. Spatter spots, too, can be quickly washed away from floors and woodwork.

Unlike the old type paints that react to water, this one, called Wallhide because of its tough, rubber-like finish, can be washed and scrubbed and resists many nasty stains such as grease, crayon, lipstick and even mercurochrome.

Amateurs have no trouble achieving a good-looking job for the rubbery texture makes it easy to apply without leaving streaks or brush marks. Thus, again, American industry comes to the rescue to make an easier job of homemaking.

Grapefruit Now Season's Best Buy

Good news from Florida is that the fresh grapefruit crop will peak in April and May, a budget buy for halving and squeezing like oranges since this special crop features small sizes. Pink as well as white grapefruit will be vitamin C bargains; seedless as well as seeded, the kind Floridians prefer for juice and flavor. If you buy grapefruit with seeds for halving and garnishing, before separating the fruit from dividing membrane take a sharp knife and with a circling movement cut through the membrane all around the seeds and lift out core and seeds all at once. Cut around each section, loosening fruit from membrane. Fill center with sliced strawberries, melon balls or any seasonal fruit.

Just Watch Your Garden Grow!

New thrills in home gardening, with visible results in less than two weeks, are due for the homemaker this season, thanks to a new completely soluble plant food that takes the guesswork out of gardening.

Garden drudgery is banished as well by the new plant food, which is extremely convenient to use. You simply mix the contents of a small packet in two gallons of water, and apply to plants, garden, or lawn with hose, sprinkler, or watering can.

Scientists at Battelle Memorial Institute, non-profit research organization, developed the new product, aptly named Nurish. Plants and lawns flourish as never before when fertilized with the new food, and there is no heavy package to carry around the yard. The concentrated food is odorless and stainless, won't harm skin or clothing, and a quart costs less than a penny.

The liquid fertilizer takes advantage of the fact that plants take their nourishment by liquid, which is Nature's method. The new 20-20-20 formula—20 per cent each of nitrogen, potassium, and phosphorus—is augmented by essential micro-nutrients never before combined in plant food.

Extra Rib May be Cause Of Shoulder, Arm Pains

Shoulder and arm pains sometimes are due to the presence of an extra rib near the neck, according to Dr. Alfred W. Adson, senior neurosurgeon at the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn.

Dr. Adson, speaking at the 18th annual assembly of the United States and Canadian chapters of the International College of Surgeons in the Chicago Palmer House, said cervical ribs, as they are called, are found in six of every 1,000 patients. Fifty-five per cent of these extra bony structures are discovered accidentally by radiologists in routine examinations for complaints other than those produced by the extra rib.

Surplus ribs occur twice as often in females as they do in males. In about one-half of the cases the cervical ribs appear on both sides; in the others they are on one side.

In some cases the extra ribs cause pain as a result of pressure and irritation on neck artery or nerve. Dr. Adson emphasized that pain in the shoulders, arm and neck may of course be caused by many other conditions as well.

Pain, which may be sharp or dull, is the most common symptom of the supernumerary rib, he said.

Often a pulsating mass can be detected above the collarbone. A sound or murmur also may be heard in the same area.

Dr. Adson said that if tests reveal that the presence of the extra rib has an effect on the pulse or blood pressure, surgery should be considered. In all instances this involves a severance of the scaleni muscles, which help raise the first and second ribs. In other cases this technique, called scalenotomy, is combined with a partial removal of the rib.
