Furniture Fashions

Early American—or American Provincial—furniture designs are perennially popular and are always in perfect taste. If you would like to provide a charming setting for your family bedrooms—old prints, china, glass, ornaments, etc., you can't do better. A number of new fabric patterns for draperies and upholstery covers have been designed as a special complement. This solid rock maple dining grouping combines true beauty with down-to-earth practicality. The table is 48 inches in diameter and extends to 78 inches. The 22-inch Lazy Susan, so convenient for those who use a multiple number of continents, is removable. The server in the background provides ample storage space for silver, linens, china, table accessories, etc. The ruggedly comfortable Captain's Chairs have pine seats. Never before has the homemaker had such a wide variety of excellent designs to choose from at such reasonable prices.

Arched Roof Buildings
SOMETIMES a farm needs a small building "right away"—a brooder house, hog house, machine shed, milk house or some other shelter.
That's where the sectionally-built structure helps out, as it need only be bolted together. In many parts of the United States, lumber dealers have started making such buildings because they can in that way better serve their farmer customers.
Buildings like the arched roof one illustrated are covered with Masonite tempered hardboard panels, which farm-

Shaddock is another name for grapefruit.

Protect That Window!
HERE IS a simple way to protect the glass window on your coal bin against breakage when a delivery is made. Most such windows are hung with strap hinges. File off the large heads of the hinge pins and knock the pins out with a punch or nail, according to advice given by Family Handyman. Replace the pins with common nails, as illustrated. The exchange of the pins for the nails will enable you to remove the window before the coal delivery is made. Later, of course, it may easily be replaced.

I leave you with this thought:
"Time you enjoy is not wasted time."

U.S. Mail Train—1952 Version

With Uncle Sam using motor transport for mail hauling up to distances of 500 miles or more, an entirely new type of rolling U.S. Post Office equipment as shown here is coming into use.
Recently the Salt Lake-Kanab Freight Line which has a large fleet of Fruehauf trailers, has been given a mail contract from Salt Lake City to Kanab, Utah, via Richfield and return, or a total of 662 miles per day.
This line with connecting carriers serves 70 post offices, 6 counties in Utah reaching a population of 75,000. The mail goes through 365 days a year carrying approximately 15,000 lbs. per day. This train consists of a mail car mounted on a tractor unit with the regular stainless steel Fruehauf semi-trailer mounted behind.
Every night at midnight it leaves Salt Lake City, regardless of weather, and is now giving the people in that section of Utah the best service they ever had. The new method eliminates two extra handlings and saves some three hours in delivering the mail.
