A Good Gas Investment

Fractional assignments are now being offered in a gas well being drilled by the Stevenson Development in the new Mix Run area of Northern Pennsylvania which is located in Cameron County southwest of the now famous Leidy field. This is the birthplace of Tom Mix of motion picture fame. This field has only recently been opened and in the past six months has developed approximately eight to ten producing wells. Other wells are in the process of drilling.

Stevenson Development drilling site is within one and one half (1 1/2) miles of several of these producers and wells are now being drilled within a thousand yards on both sides of the property.

Stevenson Development is one of the very few operations that is independent and can offer an interest to the public as a very large percentage of the land is being drilled and developed by the large and closed companies.

Those interested in purchasing a portion of this well thru legal assignments can secure a "Prospectus" and all information by writing or otherwise contacting Stevenson Development, 118-10th St., Renovo, Pa.
