ers' Court was Marilyn Heller, tember 17.

Reduce Losses of Foals
Some of the horses that are romping home ahead of the field today owe their victories—and their lives —to new scientific discoveries. According to veterinarians at the University of Kentucky, losses of unborn and new born foals due to infections have been reduced 20 percent in the bluegrass area of Kentucky within the past few years.
Better means of diagnosing ailments of foals and improved disease-fighting drugs are cited as principal factors in the loss reduction.

Poor Rich Man

Lesson for February 1, 1953

THE MAN had everything. He was young, he was in an executive position, he was in vigorous health, he was respectable, he was very rich. And still he felt something was missing. After all this, what was there for him over and beyond the pleasant and powerful life he was then living? He was spiritually sensitive; he could feel that all he had was still not quite the thing.

Camel and Needle
The man in the famous story (Matthew 19) never did get what he wanted, so far as we know. The reason is, he did not want it enough.
The price was high: nothing less than everything he had, and his health was great. So he "went away sorrowful" and that is the last we see of him. What Jesus said as he watched him go has caused him a great deal of discussion, both at the time and ever since. According to Matthew, Jesus said that it is harder for a rich man to enter God's Kingdom (that is, to have eternal life, or to be saved) than for a camel to get through a needle's eye.

All sorts of efforts have been made to show that Jesus could not possibly have meant this. The words translated "camel" and "needle's eye" could possibly mean something else, but they probably don't. We may as well face it. Jesus meant to say that the only way a camel could get through a needle's eye is by a miracle; and it is more of a miracle for a rich man to enter the Kingdom of God than for a camel to pass through a needle's eye. He did not say it was impossible; he did say it was possible only with God. This is as shocking in 20th century America as in first century Palestine.

Riches Are Risky
Actually there are many more warnings against wealth, in the Bible, than against poverty. The "have's" are in more spiritual peril than the "have-not's." Why this is, can be shortly stated. A minister who had had many contacts among the super-rich of one of America's Gold Coasts remarked to the writer that wealth makes the first generation hard, the second generation soft. The man of wealth may easily trust in his possessions and not in God, in short to make a god out of his own property. He may test right and wrong by what the effect is on his holdings.
Because his friends are mostly among other rich people, he is constantly tempted to habits, diversions, recreations, customs which are not Christian. Further, the possession of wealth tends to make the owner near-sighted; like the rich young ruler who turned his back on Jesus, he can neither see clearly his own best interest nor the needs of men and women in the shadowed ways of life.

Don't Be Ruined by Riches Now it is not true that Jesus taught that all first-class Christians must be complete paupers.
It is not true that Jesus taught that no one with property can be a Christian. It is not true that Jesus laid it down as a rule for all his followers that they must give away everything they have. One of his best-loved disciples was John, who owned a home of his own. We can recall Lydia and Barnabas among the early Christians; we can all name Christians who have served God and their fellow-men with their money. When a doctor tells a patient he must get rid of his appendix, he is not saying that all healthy persons must do the same. But when an appendix is a danger, out it must come. Now wealth may be a danger, a source of moral infection. The one best way to keep from the dangers of possessions (and these begin as soon as we have as much as one surplus dime) is to learn to think of them, and to use them, as a trust from God.
To be Christian in the earning and acquiring of what we have; to be Christian in the using of it; to spend what we have as if Christ were spending it; to remember that of him to whom much is giving, much shall be required; to regard what we own as so much opportunity for doing good, instead of so much insurance against hardships; this calls for the grace of God.
