Vetoes At

sible, through the veto vote, for a single board representing the minority to defeat the attempted action.

Under the present articles of agreement, a majority vote of every board is necessary to pass such motions. At the board's January session, a motion to revise the articles of agreement to conform with voting procedure recommended in the state school code was defeated by a similar veto by one of the boards. State school authorities urge adoption of a two-thirds majority requirement to pass motions and resolutions.

Following the "block" vote by E. Donegal Twp., which was openly criticized as a "typical Russian veto", a new motion to organize the school's administration on a grade 7-12 basis, with supervisory services extended to lower grades, also was blocked by vota. E. Donegal Twp. representatives favored this course of action but were outvoted by Mt. Joy and Marietta delegates.

Parade Continues The parade of motions and vetoes continued as attempts were made, first to name Dr. J. W. Bingham, as high school principal of the jointure, and secondly as supervising principal. Both motions to elect Dr. Bingham, who presently heads the E. Donegal Twp. public schools, were inaugurated by Paul Portner, Marietta representative.

After the meeting, school officials "regretted that personalities were dragged into the issue," emphatically pointed out that none of the veto duel was intended to discredit the administrations of Dr. Bingham or any of the other principals.

Paul A. Mueller, Lancaster attorney and solicitor for the Marietta board, then appealed to the group for harmony. He advised the schoolmen "to try giving first in order to get what is most desired." In one breath he praised the directors for their hard work and earlier accomplishments and then admonished them for their present lack of cooperation.

Urged Harmony He advised all to reconsider all action taken tonight and at recent sessions "after a good night's sleep and prayers for spiritual guidance."

Mueller openly criticized the voting clauses of the present articles of agreement and urged changes to conform to the state school code.

Attorney Arnold likewise appealed for harmony and suggested a special session of presidents of each board of the jointure prior to individual board sessions scheduled for the next two or three weeks.

Board presidents agreed to Arnold's suggestion and will attempt to lay the groundwork for renewed harmony before the next session of the joint board.

The disagreement in no way affects construction of the new school, attorneys pointed out. A continuation of the stalemate, however, might air the issue in court action.

Passion Play

relates the story including much of the discourse. Accompaniment is provided by the Passion Play Orchestra with score compiled from works of the world's greatest composers. Special lighting effects highlight the road to Calvary, and through the dramatic crucifixion scene. The final Easter Morning scene ends the two and three-quarter hour performance, and sends the entire audience out into the night in an exalted mood.

Patrons' reserved seat tickets are now available for any night to each person who contributes $1.00 toward the production expenses, at the McFadden Ticket Agency, 2nd and Locust Sts., in Harrisburg. Reservations may be secured by mail. No tickets are sold. At least 1,000 gallery and rear orchestra reservations are distributed at each performance in the lobby of Zembo Mosque beginning at 7:00 P.M. Special arrangements may be made for groups of at least 35 non-patrons from out-of-town. These groups are requested to advise the Passion Play office, 1515 Green Street, Harrisburg by mail to avoid disappointment.

Those In Service

Feb. 11, 1953

Dear Remembrance Committee, Quite possibly this shall be my last letter to all you wonderful folks. Not that I'm tired of writing, but quite soon I shall undoubtedly be on my way home. Home, what a beautiful word!

This is a pretty small world. Last weekend I was on guard duty and I got a telephone call. It was from my brother, who had just gotten to Tokyo again. I had to tell him I was on guard and couldn't see him till Sunday evening. Boy that was the longest tour of guard ever pulled. Finally Sunday afternoon I was on post at the entrance to the Isetan building when my brother walked in. I saw him first so I pulled my helmet liner lower over my eyes. As he walked in I put my hand on his chest and pushed him back and asked where he thought he was going. He started to sputter something but I couldn't hold it any longer. I started laughing and peeped up at him from under the helmet. I may have been a guard on post but he was still my big brother. He gave me a poke and probably felt like bouncing me all over the floor like he used to. A guard isn't supposed to talk on duty but those rules don't apply to brothers. We had a long chat. The Japs could have carried the whole Isetan away for all I cared.

Finally Ralph went to take in a movie till my last tour was over and then we went out on the town. Did a lot of souvenir shopping and still more sight-seeing. All too soon he had to get a midnight train "to Yokohama and I had to beat the midnight curfew. Now he's on his way to Inchon for a few days and then will return to Sasbo, Japan and once more back to Frisco. I think this is his last trip over here. Too bad I couldn't go along back on his ship, but we are planning on meeting in San Francisco in March and driving back to good old Mt. Joy, where I doubt if I'll ever get more than 2 miles away again!

My brother isn't the only one from home I met. Several weeks ago I came out of the Ernie Pyle theatre and a guy in the air force called me by name. I turned around, wondering who knew me. I asked if I should know him. I'll say I should know him. It turned out to be Johnny Roth from Florin. I used to take his ticket in the Joy theatre. We didn't have long to talk because we each had to catch busses. A couple weeks later I and a buddy met John and a buddy, walking along the Ginza. We had a great time talking about the old home town. Boy, a guy certainly has to watch himself. It seems no matter how far from home, there's always someone from home just around the corner. Ha. Like I said before it is a small world.

Well, these past fourteen months in Japan have been interesting and busy, but I'm glad I'm soon leaving. I think I have made enough maps for the 64th. I'll be glad to get to the States and get a good road map showing the way home!!

You folks have been wonderful in the past two years, to me and all the other Mt. Joy boys, bringing a little bit of "home" no matter where we may be. It kind of makes the other guys sit up and take notice when we get packages and newspapers from a grateful town. Speaking of packages I do not know when the next one will be coming, but I thought I'd better let you know you can take my name off that list as I'll be home in a very few weeks! Again I want to thank all you folks for your kindness and thoughtfulness extended to me.

Sincerely,

Frank Hassinger
