10 Dairy Students Plan Trip

Outstanding dairy herds in nine states will be inspected by 10 dairy cattle management students of the Pennsylvania State College in the course of a 3000-mile field trip April 1-12.

Passing up the usual Easter vacation to make the jaunt, the men will visit farms in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee, Kentucky, and Ohio, and will take in historical points of interest on the way.

10 Dairy Students Plan Trip

The purpose of the trip, is to provide the students opportunities to compare practices of outstanding managers and herdsmen in various sections of the country, according to Howard J. Merrill, instructor in dairy husbandry at the College, who will be in charge of the group. Mr. Merrill led similar expeditions in 1950 and 1951 through northeastern and southern states.

Aside from management investigation, the group plans tours of Gettysburg and Chickamauga National Military Parks, Washington, D. C., Mt. Vernon, Williamsburg and Johnstown, Va., the USDA Experiment Station at Beltsville, Md., Oak Ridge and Norris Dam, Tenn., and will attend the Moravian Easter Sunrise Service at Winston-Salem, N. C.

Students in the group, all Pennsylvania residents, are Norman W. Brown, Spring Mills; Edmund D. Duffy, Yeading; Gerald E. Eastman, Rome; Lynn D. Fowler, New Castle R2; John P. Gruber, Shippenville; Glenn E. Houck, Spruce Creek; Donald N. Kaelin, Wexford; Roger J. Perry, York R8; Victor W. Plastow, Walnutport R1; and Norman G. Summers, Philadelphia.

USE ORCHARD ROTATION

A survey of fruit growers in major fruit sections showed that the most profitable crops are borne in the early life of an orchard when the trees are relatively young. Carl Bittner, Penn State extension fruit specialist, says more growers make new plantings regularly, and on good sites, in a careful plan to keep young trees advancing to replace older ones.

BE READY FOR CHICKS—Have all preparations made before baby chicks arrive, reminds F. H. Leuschner, Penn State extension poultry specialist. This means all remodeling should be finished, the house thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, the brooder stove set up and fired for a couple of days so you are sure it works properly.

TREAT FENCE POSTS—Use of treated fence posts would save about half of the annual fence post replacements, according to Walter Simonds, Penn State extension forester. A few extra dollars spent for treating when building a new fence will save more than half the annual costs of repair, replacement, and labor.

PREVENT LOSS — Whenever possible, use disease-resistant vegetable varieties to prevent disease loss, urges O. D. Burke, Penn State extension plant pathologist. Such varieties yield well, and they cost little more than susceptible varieties.

IDENTIFY TERMITES — Mature termites have a black body that is not pinched at the waistline, and four long, gray wings of equal length and at least twice as long as the body, explains Stanley Gesell, Penn State extension entomologist.

SEE ORNAMENTALS — Visit nearby nurseries and greenhouses to get acquainted with new and used ornamentals, suggests A. O. Rasmussen, Penn State extension ornamental horticulturist.

31-COW HERD TESTED

Hook and Herman Ginder, this boro, completed a testing year under the official Herd Improvement Registry program. Their production averaged approximately 19 qts. daily for each cow in the herd for the year.

"IT MAKES YOU FEEL YOU BELONG"

Telephone people stick to their jobs a long time. Why? One man puts it this way: "You get real satisfaction out of what you're doing—think it's useful, essential. Telephone work with its heart in community service makes you feel you belong. You make a lot of friends along the line. And besides, working for the telephone company today offers even more opportunity for men and women than when I started."
