

Rural Mail

It may be surprising to know the percentage of people who will casually glance at the entrance to your lane, or the place you have your mail box. A neatly painted box, well constructed and substantially erected, leads these people to realize that there is a well kept farm, for they take pride in seeing that small things as well as the major items are well kept and well preserved.

So why not use April 13 to 18 as the time you will look over that mail box, and no matter if it needs only one nail or a complete overhauling from the start to finish, see that it is done. It will not only benefit you but will help tremendously in the delivery of your mail.

Bids for the hauling and storing of about 50 tons of coal sometime before October 1, will be received by the Postmaster. Persons interested will kindly get in touch with the Postmaster at Mt. Joy for full particulars
