Rotarians

Rotarians with his anecdotes.

In his talk to the Rotarians, Rev. Richwine stressed the point of "service" and what the word "service" means to both individuals and organizations. "A good follower is as important as a good leader" said Rev. Richwine. The trouble with most of us today is that everyone wants to be a leader and not "follow", and that is why the hard work is left up to one or two persons in any group, he said.

Rev. Richwine was emphatic in stating that no service club had any good reason to exist unless they had vision and gave service to others. Without vision people perish, he said, those who profit most, serve best.

Facts About Your Television

Your television set, with its myriad tubes and other delicate parts, is probably the most complex piece of equipment in your home. It is many times more complicated than your radio, for example. Because of its complexity it will need occasional repairs and adjustments to keep it in top-notch condition, just as your automobile requires periodic maintenance.

When repairs or adjustments are needed, don't try to make them yourself. Tampering with a TV set can complicate a minor fault, and result in troubles requiring more parts and time to repair than would have been necessary otherwise. This leads to increased service charges.

Your TV service dealer is the qualified person to do this job. He has gone through specialized training to become familiar with the intricate circuits of your set. He has the tools and test equipment necessary for this delicate work.

Tampering with a TV set can also be a personal hazard. Only the skilled hands of your TV service dealer can safely probe for faults and make repairs.

The high voltages present in your set do not disappear when you unplug it. Instead, they remain "bottled up" for some time afterward. Unpleasant or even dangerous electrical shocks can result from touching certain parts with your hands or tools. The picture tube is a source of danger, too. Since practically all the air has been removed from your picture tube, there is tremendous pressure on the outside of the glass.

Improper handling may cause the tube to explode, scattering glass in all directions. So don't risk cuts and possible permanent damage to your eyesight by exposing yourself to the picture tube.

Your service dealer will make most repairs right in your home, but some will have to be made in his shop. This is because some TV troubles may be caused by a combination of circuit problems which can only be detected through the use of precision test equipment—too large and complex to be brought into your home.

Your service dealer's investment in shop equipment alone is usually more than $3,000. Using this equipment, he will be able to accurately diagnose your set's troubles, and repair it in the least time and at the least cost to you.

Whether the work is done in your home or in his shop, your service dealer will do his best to serve you promptly and at a fair cost. His charges—which reflect the time he spends serving you plus any necessary tubes and other parts—are your best investment in television satisfaction.

How To Avoid Unnecessary Service Calls

Read the instructions that come with your set and make sure you know how to operate it properly.

Don't tamper with the buttons on the back of your set unless recommended in the manufacturer's instruction sheet. Some of them were put there only for the use of your service dealer.

Don't place your set close to a radiator or any other source of heat.

If you get no picture or sound, check to see that the set is plugged in before you call your service technician. Make sure that the wall outlet is live by plugging in a table lamp.

Make sure that the channel selector has not been switched to a dead channel when receiving neither picture or sound.
