OWL LAFFS
BY A WISE OWL

Along about this time of year I find it very difficult to concentrate 'cause the great outdoors continuously beckon. Despite insects, snakes and mud I still find nature's roof of leaves over my head preferable to a roof of shingles.

There's only one thing takes the joy out of it all—the family is planning our vacation and considering every location but those at which I could loaf in old clothes and fish. And you should see the new vacation clothes and bills that go with them. Yipe! Guess I'll just have to grin and bear it.

A very nervous business man from Columbia in a poor state of health after being examined by his physician was advised not to take anything that disagreed with him. So he packed up and went to Florida leaving his wife at home. — not bad!

The fellows down at Newcomer's Hardware Store had quite a discussion on the strength of the biggest elephant with Friday's Circus. One of them came up with the idea of taking a tractor back to the circus and having a tug-of-war. They did just that and when the tractor pulled and yanked the elephant stood placidly by never even noticing that anything was tied to him.

Dear ladies: Keep in mind that there is nothing like a dish towel for wiping that contented look off a married man's face!

Those circus elephants caused one guy to take the oath. Bill Waitz up on Elbow Alley looked out the kitchen window in the open field next to his home and saw an elephant wandering around. — At the time he didn't know that one of the circus elephants had gotten loose and was wandering around. When he saw the animal he threw up both hands and said: "That does it, never again."

As you know, right now is a terrifically busy time on the farm. Days could be forty-eight hours long and there'd still be things unfinished at bedtime. Consequently when a Donegal farmer had just shown the new hired man around the farm and explained to him all the jobs he would be expected to do, the hired man asked: "How about clearing the snow out of the driveway and from around the house?"

"What do you mean?" asked the farmer: "there's no snow at this time of year".
"That's true", replied the new hired hand, "but there should be plenty of it by the time I get the rest of those chores done!"

Saturday a nearby business place couldn't locate their bookkeeper. When the boss inquired of his whereabouts, a clerk supplied: He's gone to the races, boss. "What?" yelled the boss. "In the middle of our annual audit?" "Yes, sir," explained the clerk. "It was our only chance to balance the books." — Well, at least he tried!

Harry Troutwine up at the post office was having all kinds of difficulties trying to get his car door open last Saturday morning. Even the key wouldn't unlock it. Finally he walked around the front, grinning rather sheepishly and walking walked away. It wasn't the car he wanted, it was Matoney's. — — — Well, just another case of mistaken identity.

The improvements in our highways today are stupendous. Just think the old narrow trails where two cars could barely pass without colliding are being replaced by splendid wide highways where six or eight cars can collide at one time.

"What is your rule of business—your slogan?" I asked a big time operator.
"Very simple," he replied, "I pay for something I can't get with money that I haven't got, and then sell what I never had for more than it ever cost."

Titus Ruff told us he knows of a hustling insurance agent who got fired, cause he talked a customer to death after selling him a life insurance policy.

APARTMENT—a place where you start to turn off the radio and find you've been listening to the neighbor's set.

Irate Florin wife to husband: "It isn't so much that I object to your sneaking out, as it is the sneaky way you have of sneaking back in."

Men! Always keep in mind—Some men look for trouble. Others marry it.

The hours that come in cans

Think of the hours Grandma spent every day doing dreary, tiring chores—peeling, coring, pitting, grinding, squeezing, shelling. And the weeks it took to can and preserve enough food to last the winter!

Our mothers demanded relief from these countless hours of kitchen drudgery. So, American business put its resources to work. The result, as everyone knows, was a revolution in housekeeping.

It really began when the American Can Company perfected the modern tin can. Constant improvement in design and manufacture of containers made it possible to put foods and beverages of every kind on your table, regardless of season.

For the modern wife and mother the can has made simpler and shorter the job of feeding her family. Best of all, she has many more hours to relax and enjoy herself.

Many other good things come from can-making and can-using activities. Thousands of well-paid jobs—many of them right here in Pennsylvania—have been created. Farmers have found a stable market and higher prices for their larger, better crops. Whole new businesses have been able to get started.

Your desire for more and more hours of leisure is one of the incentives that make the 35,000 people of Canco strive so hard to help you take it easier than Grandma. Constantly satisfying your needs is a big part of what businesses such as ours do to help make America a wonderful country to live and work and relax in.
