Shirley Eby To Vie For Title As Pa. Rose Queen

Miss Shirley Eby will represent Mount Joy High School, at which she is a senior, in the district eliminations for the Pennsylvania Rose Queen on May 29 at 8 p. m. at McCaskey High School in Lancaster. Lancaster is one of seventeen localities in the state in which such district eliminations will be held.

Sponsored by the Lancaster Junior Chamber of Commerce, this judging will pick the one young lady from the eight entries, representing eight Lancaster County schools, who will enter the final judging at Hershey on June 11 and 12.

Mac McCaskey, master of ceremonies on the Lancaster "Amateur Review" television program, will be master of ceremonies at McCaskey on the 29.

200 Mothers And Daughters Attend Annual Banquet

Two hundred persons attended the annual mothers and daughters meeting last Thursday evening in St. Mark's E. U. B. Church. Members of the Ushers' League of the church served the dinner, which was prepared by some of the ladies of the church. A unique feature of the dinner was the use of Red-Bird napkins, printed with Kentucky colloquialisms, representing the work of Red-Bird Mission in Kentucky.

Miss Anna Mae Eby was chairman of the program. The scripture was read by Jean Woigemuth and prayer was offered by her mother, Mrs. Chas. Woigemuth. A group of twelve grandmothers, mothers and daughters sang two appropriate selections. The group included Mrs. Minnie Bates, Mrs. Harold Kulp, and Darla Kulp, Mrs. Charles Barrick, Mrs. Stoej Barrick and Judith Barrick, Mrs. Harry Beamenderfer, Mrs. Alvin Yingst and Karen Yingst, Mrs. John Hershey, Mrs. Chester Kauffman, and Jean Kauffman.

Dr. Ruth Moore, M.D., a former medical missionary to Arabia gave a challenging message concerning her contacts while in Arabia.

Prizes were awarded to the oldest person, received by Mrs. Daisy Mowrer, and to the youngest daughter, Deborah Latchford. A prize was also awarded to the person coming the greatest distance, Miss Helen Booth, in training in University Hospital, Philadelphia, received this prize.
