Marietta H. S. Commencement This Evening

Dr. Paul Bixby, Professor of Education of Pennsylvania State Teachers College, will be the speaker at the 79th Annual Commencement College, will be the speaker at the 79th Annual Commencement Exercises of Marietta High School, to be held Thursday evening, May 28, in the high school auditorium at eight o'clock. Twenty students will be graduated at this time.

Three members of the graduating class — James Marley, Srilley Cummings, and Nancy Groff—will present orations.

ATTENDED CONVENTION

Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Shoop attended the Pennsylvania State Dental convention which was held in Atlantic City last week.

Temple Sponsors Teachers Courses At F. and M.

Temple is again announcing graduate and undergraduate courses for teachers and school administrators to be conducted at Franklin & Marshall College, beginning September 28th and extending through the 1953-1954 school year. These courses will be the first of a new three year series.

The forthcoming term will also be the fourth year for the courses at Franklin & Marshall College. This continuation is done with the enthusiastic commendation coming from many prominent educators in this area as well as the desire of many previous participants to continue their graduate training. The courses, which will cover a wide variety of subjects and problems of vital importance to principals, teachers and others in the field will extend throughout two semesters, and their appropriateness and wide acceptance may be inferred from the more than 825 individuals who have taken advantage of the thirty or more different offerings in this Graduate Center.

Strategically located within easy reach of a very large and progressive body of teachers, and with classes meeting during the late afternoon and evening, the courses can be carried on concurrently, with the registrants losing no time from their normal pursuits. The courses take on added significance from the fact that they have been selected with great care to conform to the needs of the community and the suggestion of local educational leaders, together with experience gained in the presentation of the courses given during the past three years.

Registration hours have been arranged for 4 to 6 and 7 to 9 p.m., Wednesday, September 23, in Fackenthal Library at Franklin & Marshall College.

The Dutch Philosopher (AS OVERHEARD BY JOHN BOYD)

Well, Mrs. Espenshate! Come up on the porch and enjoy this nice weather. Sunday without such a rain storm was quite unusual now wasn't it?

Yes, for once people went somewhere and got home in the dry. Did you and Chake go any place?

No, he chust wanted to set around. After he read the papers and pattered around the yard a little he tired himself out and laid down and took a nap. He said he would of mowed a part of the lawn only people don't like to listen to a lawn mower on a Sunday afternoon.

No—I don't like to hear one either. A body can do almost anything on a Sunday nowadays but push a lawn mower on account of the noise they make.

Well, as far as Chake is concerned, I think he said that about lawn mowing chust for an excuse not to do it. He is good at that.

Well, we will soon have a dry spell and the lawns won't grow so fast. Chorch used his power machine the other evening and after he got done he came in and says he thinks somebody ought to invent a small mower that a body could ride like the ones they have on golf courses. I says I hope not because you would drive it too fast like you do a car and have an accident and maybe kill yourself with it.

Yes well. What did you and Chorch do on Sunday?

Oh, we chust took a little ride on Sunday and had dinner up near Harrisburg somewhere. Chorch did not want to go on account of the Sunday traffic but in the end—after I told him what I had planned for dinner—his appetite got the best of him and he says we will drive someplace and eat, but stay on the back roads. Then we got lost a couple of times and by the time we got on a main road Chorch was so hungry that he wanted to stop at the first hot dog stand we came to. But I put my foot down on that. I says, I am hungry too but after all this fussing around I ain't going to eat at no hot dog stand. Keep driving, I says, 'til we get to a good place. So he did and I had a big platter of fried chicken and Chorch had a steak. Coming home he stayed on the main road and chust to be annoying he didn't drive fast like he usually does. I says, Chorch, you are going too slow and somebody will get impatient and run into us from behind, I says. And he says how can we enchoy looking at the beautiful Garden Spot of America—meaning Lancaster County—if we tear along like we had to get to New York City before we could go to bed. And chust then a state policeman came along and told Chorch pretty sharp like to speed up a little as he had a whole parade of cars behind him. After that there wasn't any more trouble.

Didn't you say anything? No, I have learned when to keep my trap shut. I chust said when we got home I would make him a nice cold supper and we talked about that 'til we got home.

Well, what else is new? There don't seem too much going on except this everlasting talk about butchets and taxes. A body gets sick of it sometimes, because no matter what happens in the end we will have to pay more taxes anyway.

How can we pay more than what we are paying now? Don't ask me—but as Chorch says, we always have.

It often wonders me what these governments do with all the money they get. The papers chust say that this department needs so many billions and this other one so many billions, but they never tell a person what they aim to do with it.

No doubt if they did it would fill a whole Sunday newspaper with figures and nobody would read it anyway. Chorch says all them head men probably figure what they need and then ask for a lot more than that chust to make sure they will get what they need. And in the end it is easier for Chorch to give me twenty-five dollars to run the house on for a week than that I could get along on twenty, which I probably could do if I had to.

No doubt that is about the way it is done.

Well, taxes or no taxes, I got to get over home now and scrape something to gether for Chorch's supper.

What are you having?

What I was going to have for Sunday—weal outlets, fried potatoes and a can of tomatoes. Chorch will have to eat it even though he don't like weal because he is going to such a loth meeting and he won't have time to eat somewhere else. Good bye now.

Good bye.

Those In Service

Newport, R.I.
Dear Rem. Committee,
I received your gift that you sent me and I appreciate it very much. I showed the rest of the boys and they said that it was very nice of the town to do things like that. Thank you very much again.
SN Frank Zimmerman

Dear Committee:
Many thanks for the very useful "dog chain". The gift arrived several days ago while on our Division Field Exercises which will continue for eight weeks here at Grafenwohr, Germany. After which we will return to home station at Hanau, Germany.

The weather has been very cold. Today was Mother's Day and we had quite a bit of snow. As for my duties, I'm the Battalion Adjutant or the S1 as referred to in military terms. Again many thanks for the chain and best wishes to all for continued success in all your efforts, I remain Sincerely,
Capt. Harry G. Walters, Jr.

Geneva, N. Y.
Dear Rem. Committee,
Sure was surprised to receive a package from you already. I was even more surprised when I opened the package and found what was inside. Right now there isn't anything I can use, more, unless it would be some sleep. It seems there was a slip-up somewhere along the line and we were issued our dog tags, but no chains. So I can sure use the dog chain.

I picked up our weekly base bulletin yesterday and ran across an article about Johnny Cryns. Remember, he gave several talks to the high school students about communism. He was also master of ceremonies at the talent show that was held last year. He's almost through basic training according to the paper. He's trying to get Eddie Fisher, Patti Paige, Joni James, and has already managed to get Karen Chandler to appear at Sampson. Well I have some shoes to shine also have to help get barracks clean for open house that Sampson is going to have on the 15 & 16, so thanks again for the dog chain.
