OWL LAFFS

BY A WISE OWL

Well, here it is, October 1st, and time we're looking over our crop of entries for the Farm Show. I don't see how the "growing things" know whether to mature or just stop and wait for the frost. For weeks no rain, they're parched in a blazing sun, then rain, and cold close to freezing for a week, now no rain and more torrid sun. Poor Mother Nature, her children sure should be confused.

Have you ever thought that another war would confront us with a tough dilemma? As humans, we couldn't afford to lose, as taxpayers we couldn't afford to win.

A Florin mother told her little boy if he can't succeed the first time he should try, try again. Then the little boy said: "Oh, I see, mother. Do it like God did when he made man. He took one look and said 'I can do better than that' and then he made a woman!"

Just read in the paper where one of the roughest riding rodeo cowhands out west suffered a serious fall. In riding his niece's rocking horse he fell, breaking his collarbone.

Telephone operator to a new girl she is breaking in: "No, honey, you say, 'Just a moment, please,' not 'Hang onto your pants, Mister!'"

While visiting on Columbia Avenue where the lady of the house was housecleaning, her little daughter noticed a cobweb for the first time. Inquiringly she asked: "What's that stitched in the corner, mother?"

There's a very trusting wife in our midst. She told one of our stogees that her husband's friends are always playing jokes on him. That the poor dear sat up until 4 a. m. with a sick friend the other night and someone filled his pocket with ladies' silk undies and nylon!"

Dan Will brought this one back, from Cross Forks, his old huntin' grounds:
A hillbilly along Kettle Creek had wandered off into the woods and failed to return for supper, so his young grandson was sent to look for him. He found him standing in the bushes.
"Gettin' dark, Grandpap," the tot ventured.
"Yep."
"Supper time, Grandpap."
"Yep."
"Ain't ye hungry?"
"Yep."
"Wal, air ye comin' home?"
"Nope."
"Why ain't ye?"
"Can't."
"Why can't ye,"
"Standin' in a b'ar trap."

A little Donegal street girl was visiting her grandmother in Columbia and asked if she could leave her bedroom door open because she was afraid in the dark.
"Why," chided her grandmother, "you aren't afraid of the dark at home."
"I know, but that's our own dark."

President

After symbolically cutting big birthday cake on the stage, the President will escort Mrs. Eisenhower to their special box in the center of the main south tier of seats, to join their special guests and members of the Eisenhower family in sharing ice cream and cake with everyone in the Arena.

Then the party itself begins, with Fred Waring as master of ceremonies. There will be no speeches, the entire evening will be devoted to games and entertainment, with the entire audience taking part.
The governors of the states, all of whom are being invited together with all senators at the request of the President, will play "Pin the Tail on the Donkey". Waring says he is even considering getting several kissing games like "Spin the Bottle" going, with several groups of national and state celebrities and their ladies taking part.
Ben Hogan, holder of both the American and British Open golf titles, has promised to be present with a number of other outstanding golfers, to "compete" with members of the cabinet, Governors, and several Senators in a "driving contest" that will be driven into the audience, will be of the soft textile "practice" variety, each imprinted with a commemorative birthday legend.
The games and contests will be interspersed with Waring orchestral and glee club arrangements of the President's and Mrs. Eisenhower's favorite tunes. Banked upward and outward in a double tier behind the stage will be a chorus of more than 500 girls and boys from Pennsylvania schools, whose first month of the new school term will have been spent in intensive rehearsal of special choral arrangements of old and new songs, and a newly arranged version of "The Song of America" produced by Waring for its premiere performance in honor of the President's birthday.

As the party ends, everyone present will receive as a souvenir a newly designed, limited edition, "President's Birthday Plate", bearing the President's signature and the double-dove Pennsylvania Dutch peace-and-love motif.

The party in the Arena ends at about 10 p. m., and the President and Mrs. Eisenhower will celebrate his actual birthday on Wednesday quietly with members of his family.
Knowing our minister's grand sense of humor, we like to pass this on—
A sexton cleaning up the pulpit after Sunday services took a peek at the preacher's manuscript. Along the left margin were instructions such as: "Pause here," "Wipe brow," "Use angry fist gesture," "Look Upward" - Near the end was a long paragraph of texts, opposite which the preacher had marked in capital letters: "ARGUMENT WEAK HERE, YELL LIKE THE DICKENS."

One of our young brides was extolling the virtues of her husband to a friend.
"Jerry is just about the most generous man in the world," she declared. "He gives me everything credit can buy."

I don't know where our office devil got this piece of poetry, but it's cute. Here 'tis—
Pop walked down the street on a wild fall day.
And the wind whipped under His neat toupe.
The wind said, "Whoosh,"
And Pop cried, "Stop!"
But the wind was strong,
And it blew Pop's top.

Fool Warmth
The warmth of a fabric depends generally on its thickness and, more particularly, its thickness under a given pressure. Thus, if cotton and nylon socks are about the same general thickness and weight, they will be equally warm. However, the sole of the sock may vary in its ability to insulate against cold, depending on how far it can resist reduction in thickness under the pressure of the foot. This, in turn, will depend on the properties of the fiber, construction, etc., so that no general answer to this question is possible.

Far-Off Islands
Far-off islands made news in 1951. The Cocos, or Keeling, Islands in the Indian Ocean are soon to pass administratively within the British Commonwealth from Malaya to Australia, in order to expedite their use as a way point on a projected air route between Australia and South Africa. Most of the 1,700 Malay inhabitants of Cocos-Keeling seek to migrate to greener fields in North Borneo, where a colony of the islanders has been started.

Face Powder Shade
Face powder and foundation slightly darker than her natural skin tone are becoming to the older woman. A shade that is too light points up every line and hollow of her face. On the other hand, the color must not be too dark, or it will look unnatural and make her skin seem thick. When you cannot decide between two shades, put one on the right side, the other on the left side, of your face; then compare the results.

Mutual Benefit
In the western Hemisphere, the urge for security found expression in Central America, where five republics implemented an old ideal. Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras, and Nicaragua set up the San Salvador Charter, for mutual benefit in economic, cultural, and other lines. Ratified by the five governments, the charter became effective on December 14, 1951.

Snow Trap
The Sierra Nevada, a great mountain barrier running down through inland California roughly parallel to the Pacific coast, is a natural snow trap. Moisture-laden winds from the Aleutians area first drop heavy rain on northern California and then leave the rest of their water vapor as snow in the high altitudes of the mountains.

The Outdoor Crowd
Cotton separates which you can mix and match are still going to be very popular with the outdoor crowd. Classic styles are still the most favored, the blouses being sleeveless, round or pointed collared, while the skirts are swirling or single-pleated in back or front or both.

Self Centered
Milton Lukatch, Milwaukee ladies' wear manufacturer: "The little woman doesn't buy fancy lingerie to please you but herself. The husband doesn't notice his wife's lingerie in most cases, and she seldom has an opportunity to show it off to other women."

Knob Washer
Are the knobs of your kitchen cabinets and dresser drawers always working loose? Make a small washer out of a piece of fine sandpaper, thread it onto the screw, with the abrasive side next to the drawer, and tighten. You'll never struggle with loose knobs again.

Fres Islands
Finland formally became guarantor of the independence of the Aland Islands in the Gulf of Bothnia in 1951 by passing a new home rule act superseding one passed in 1922 which made the League of Nations guarantor for the Alands.

Index Tabs
Do the index tabs on your dictionary or other indexed books curl up with use? Then dab the tabs with at least two thin coats of fresh, white shellac. Not only will the tabs stay stiff and lay flat but they can be easily cleaned.

Windshield Improvement
More than 250,000 automobiles have been manufactured with the new bluish-green shaded windshield which research engineers developed to reduce overhead glare and heat input.

Contracting Sunlight
If you're painting, try adding a little blue to the paint used on walls opposite the windows of a well-lighted room, in order to counteract the too-bright effect of the yellow sunlight.

Devil's Food
When making devil's food cake, use one-half cup of hot coffee to mix the cocoa, or melt the chocolate in, giving the desired reddish tint to the finished cake.

Protect Eyes From Soap
Before beginning a shampoo, grease the area around your eyes with petroleum jelly or cold cream. It will keep the soap out of your eyes.

Preventing Skillet Rust
It's a good idea to apply a thin coat of oil or grease to an iron skillet after it is washed and dried and before it is put away. This will insure against rust.

Award Of Merit Presented For Driver Education Program

Harrisburg—Pennsylvania's Award of Merit from the National Driver Education Award Program was presented today to Dr. Frank B. Haas, state superintendent of schools, at the annual State Education Congress here. The presentation ceremony took place at the State Educational Building in the presence of more than 300 of the state's school administrators.
The award, a bronze plaque, recognized Pennsylvania's progress in improving the scope and quality of its high school driver education program during the 1952-53 academic term ended last June.
During the last three school terms Pennsylvania has more than doubled driver education enrollment of the 1949-50 school year. Price E. Clark, educational director of the Association of Casualty and Surety

Companies, sponsors of the award program, declared in presenting the plaque. He added, however, that nearly 60,000 of the state's 100,266 eligible students were not enrolled in driver education courses offered last term. Of Pennsylvania's 897 high school, only 404 provided courses last term, during which 41,807 boys and girls were taught to drive safely, he said.
Mr. Clark urged the state's educators to encourage more future drivers to take the courses and to help make them available in every Pennsylvania high school as "an inevitable and logical step toward making the state's streets and highways safer in the future."
Pennsylvania's high school driver education program is under the direction of Ivan J. Stehman, chief, division of highway safety education, state department of education. The plaque presented today is the third consecutive annual award received by Pennsylvania. In 1949 only 13,341 students were enrolled in the courses in 171 high schools.
