GAS TAX TO PRODUCE $125 MILLION THIS YEAR

Harrisburg, Sept. 1 — Yearly income from the state's gasoline tax has jumped from $3,112,000 to $124,977,000 since the levy was first imposed here 32 years ago this week, J. B. Fisher, Chairman of the Association Petroleum Industries of Pennsylvania reported today.

"Of course these 32 years have seen a substantial rise in gasoline consumption," Mr. Fisher said, "but the increased revenue also reflects the change in our tax rate."

When a motorist buys 10 gallons of gasoline today, he pays 10 cents in taxes to the state and federal governments, Mr. Fisher pointed out. Thirty-two years ago, the tax on 10 gallons was 10 cents.

He said that as of January 1 of this year, revenue from the state's gasoline taxes alone had added up to $1,496,912,000 since first imposed. He continued:

"With the use of motor vehicles on the rise, the gasoline tax should keep pace by producing yearly increases in revenues through increased gasoline consumption. Thus, Pennsylvania motorists are fortunate in that constitutional amendment has been passed that will insure them that any added funds paid by the users of the highway will be used only for highway purposes. And the money so spent as to insure a full return in road improvements for each dollar collected."

Mrs. Wallace Zerphey, of town, left Thursday evening for Grand Island, Nebraska, where she joined her husband, T. S. Wallace Zerphey, on Sunday. She will remain there for about three weeks.

Public Assistance Rolls At Low Point

Pennsylvania's public assistance rolls have dropped below their World War II low point. At the end of August, 1953, the number of public assistance recipients totaled only $202,509. The World War II low point was reached in June 1945, when the number of public assistance recipients was 202,713. As the war came to a close, the rolls commenced to climb and reached a peak of 491,890 recipients in March 1950. From that date to the present there has been an almost continuous decline.

The current assistance rolls are made up of 65,194 persons receiving Old-Age Assistance, 91,507 receiving Aid to Dependent Children, 15,885 receiving Blind Pensions, 11,350 receiving Aid to Disabled, and 18,573 receiving General Assistance.

Only 1.9 percent of the inhabitants of the State are now on the public assistance rolls, in contrast to more than 20 percent at the height of the depression. Although a few counties have as much as 4 percent of their population on assistance, there are 11 counties in which less than 1 person in a hundred is receiving public aid. These counties, with the percent of population on the assistance rolls are: Bucks, Mont-
