"That They Might Live" is the theme of the Family Commitment service in all Methodist Churches this Sunday, when members will be called to make a commitment as a witness to a wholesome, attractive way of life that leads to a Christian observance of Christmas.

America can lift up a new light for the darkened world by making Christmas Christian. There can be no doubt that we have almost lost the value of this sacred season. All too many churchmen have failed to appreciate the true significance of Christmas. The gift of God's only Son was to bring life, light, and hope into a weary world.

One of the sources of greatest reproach to the American way of life has been the drunken orgies which have heretofore characterized our celebration of the Christmastide. Many deaths and shameful debacles have resulted in office drinking parties which have descended below the level of the ancient Saturnalia of Rome.

Safety Councils and insurance agencies endorse this way of helping to eliminate danger to life and property caused by drunken drivers; and to safeguard American homelife, members are asked to make a family commitment to total abstinence and observe Christmas as Christians.
