Your Farm Problems

By Ezra Taft Benson Secretary of Agriculture

Part II

Any effective solution of today's farm problem must provide methods for reducing our huge stockpile of agricultural commodities and at the same time prevent further burdensome accumulations.

Getting rid of these surpluses is only half of our problem. Even if we were able to bring them down to manageable proportions, we would soon acquire new hoards of wheat, corn, cotton and butter under the existing system of price supports.

We already have approximately $2.5 billions tied up in loans on farm commodities, in addition to an equal amount invested in goods which we own outright — $5 billions in all.

Our present program does not encourage the production shifts which are required to meet the various commodities.

Of course, we could destroy some of our surpluses. Remember the government's potato fiasco of a few years ago?

Or we might plow under every third row of cotton and kill little pigs. Remember the mid-1930s?

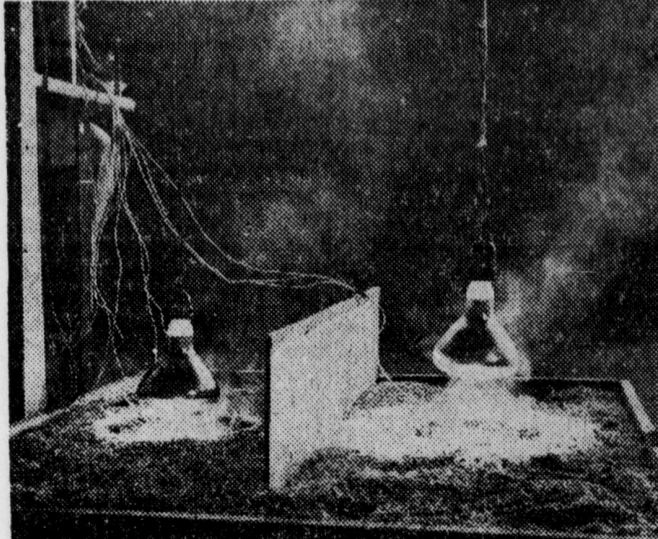

Actually, we would not even consider such wasteful practices.

We are attempting to move surplus food and fiber into forage which we acquired these commodities under our price support operations. This means that we will be forced to take substantial losses on whatever we sell abroad.

At the same time, we must avoid outright dumping, which would disrupt normal trade channels and bring down upon us the wrath of other friendly countries.

There are these other alternatives: We can make a real effort to move surpluses out of warehouses and into stomachs by promoting greater public consumption of some commodities.

Brooder Lamp May Be Fire Hazard

Infrared lamps, useful in brooding chicks, lambs and pigs, may start fires if allowed to come in contact with barn litter. In laboratory tests made at the Pennsylvania State College Agricultural Experiment Station by Paul M. Anderson, the bulb at the left, hanging 1 inch from the sawdust, caused charring in less than 1 minute. The one at the right, hanging 3 inches from the sawdust, caused charring in less than 15 minutes.

T. C. Depot Names

Polio Dup Heads

Marietta, Pa. — Colonel H. A. Malin, Commanding Officer of the Transportation Materiel Command, and Colonel Duval S. Adams, Commanding Officer of the Marietta T. C. Depot, announced today the appointment of a joint-committee to direct the military installations' annual March of Dimes and Dollars Polio Campaign.

The local military establishment again is cooperating with the Lancaster Co. Chapter of the National Foundation For Infantile Paralysis in the worthwhile fund-raising appeal. Colonel Malin, who is keenly interested in the community affairs of Lancaster County, has expressed the hope that there will be a 100 per cent participation in this fund raising drive, by both the military and civilian personnel of his Command.

Among those serving on the committee are: Mrs. Gladys Rehner, 214 Mount Joy Street, Mount Joy; Mrs. Beatrice S. Wittel, Main Street, Florin; Susan Meshey, 439 Market Street, Marietta; Allan Kulman, 278 W. Market Street, Marietta; Nancy L. Findley, 310 Cherry Street, Columbia; Margaret E. Peters, 168 South 8th Street, Columbia; and Ethel E. Oveide, 622 S. Marshall Street, Virginia McComsey, 850 4th Street, and Gerald Resh, 219 Coral Street, all of Lancaster. Captain James F. Tuman and Joseph T. Salerno have been named co-chairmen of the joint committee.

We can push forward in our research programs to uncover new uses for farm goods. We can throw our entire weight behind plans for expanding present foreign markets and finding new outlets overseas.

Such methods, while they will not produce results as quickly as dumping or destroying food, offer a far sounder approach to our basic problems.

Along those lines, I can report that our promotional campaign, undertaken with the meat industry and food stores, is producing real results. We are consuming beef this year at the rate highest in our history.

Farm exports have turned upward since July 1, reflecting our emphasis upon expanding trade. Continuing high employment at home, with national income at record levels, means a strong demand for farm goods in the United States.

Our population is growing at a rate of more than 2,000,000 per year, which means that by 1975 there will be 200,000,000 Americans. Our future farm problems may involve questions of shortages, rather than surpluses.

We cannot wait for an expanding population to solve our immediate troubles, however. We need an interim program to encourage shifts to other crops. We must halt further build-ups of government stockpiles now.

Our urgent need is for a price support program which can be adjusted in terms of production and demand. One which will effectively reduce surpluses, with a minimum of government controls.

Florin Youth Writes "Dragnet" Type Essay

Yvonne Brubaker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel B. Brubaker, Florin, was named the winner of an essay contest recently conducted in the East Donegal Township High School where she is a senior. The following is a copy of her essay done in "Dragnet" style:

The account you are about to read actually happened. Not even the names have been changed to add to the understanding of the story.

Friday, November 13, 1953, the senior Problems of Democracy class of East Donegal Twp. High School made a tour of the Lancaster County Court House. The reason: to get better understanding of the offices and departments of our court house and to observe a naturalization ceremony in action.

Nine-thirty a. m. we arrived at the court house where we were greeted by our guide, Mr. David Eaby, a prominent lawyer of Lancaster County. We were taken to the Orphan's Court where Mr. Eaby briefed us on the proceedings of this court and on other offices of the court house.

Ten o'clock a. m., we began our tour. We first visited the library, where we were told that there are kept approximately fifteen thousand volumes of books. From the library we went to the Miscellaneous Court, where we listened to a support case. Next, we went to the County Commissioner's Office where we were told of its duties by Mr. Metzler. We then went across the hall to the Registration Offices. Here we learned the requirements for voting. From here we were taken to the Sheriff's Office, where we saw Sheriff Abe Lane and saw the one-hundred year old Jury Wheel. From the Sheriff's Office we went to the Prothonotary and saw judgments dated as far back as 1729. In the Quarter Sessions Office we saw records of both criminal and non-criminal cases. One case, in particular, was brought to our attention. It was the case of Edward Gibbs.

In the Recorder's Office we saw a deed on parchment dated Aug. 1, 1796 and signed by Indians. The last of the offices we visited was the Register of Wills Office where wills and marriage licenses are granted.

Eleven-thirty a. m. we concluded our tour of the offices and sat in on the naturalization ceremony.

Each person being naturalized individually went to the front of the court room and took care of the necessary papers. The judge then came in and gave an opening speech. The oath of the court was then given. Next, all persons being naturalized stood up, raised their right hand, and took the oath.

At the close of the ceremony, different organizations of Lancaster County gave a copy of the American's Creed and a small American flag to each naturalized citizen.

After the court house proceedings, all naturalized citizens were invited to a dinner at the Brunswick Hotel.

This concluded our tour of the court house.

Monday, November 16, 1953, a trial was held in Maytown, Penna. in and for the senior Problems of Democracy class of East Donegal Twp. High School. The results of that trial: touring the court house is punish-

Sale Register

Saturday, January 16th — a public sale at 2 p. m. in East Donegal Twp., on the intersection of the Bainbridge-Maytown & Donegal Springs-Rowenna Roads: a frame dwelling, by Mark R. Eaby, Adm. of the estate of Emma H. Gipe, Dec'd. Lloyd Landvater, Auct.

Farm Calendar

Produce Quality — Consumers recognize the value of poultry products in the diet, says F. H. Leuschner, Penn State extension poultry specialist, and poultrymen who market high-quality products get the best prices. Good care of eggs and careful dressing of poultry help to put high-quality products on the market.

Grow Good Plants — Young seedling plants cannot be expected to develop properly unless the soil in hotbeds and cold-frames is raised and well drained, reminds James Dutt, Penn State extension vegetable specialist. The soil must drain to a depth of at least four inches below the surface, he says.

Seed is Certified — Katahdin potatoes comprised about three-quarters of the acreage of all varieties certified in Pennsylvania last year, reports Elmer Pifer, Penn State extension agronomist. Eleven per cent was Russet Rural and 5 per cent Sebago. Eight other varieties also were included in certification.

Keep Farm Records — A good record of the farm business helps in planning future operations, points out Edward Smith, Penn State extension farm management specialist. A carefully kept farm book also aids in making the income tax return.

Grow Small Fruits — If you are planning to start some small fruit plantings in the spring, the Pennsylvania State University Circular 368, "Growing Small Fruits for Home Use," will give useful information. Get a copy from your county agricultural agent.

Use Emergency Power — When storms cause electrical power failure, you can use the tractor as a source of vacuum for operating the milking machine, say Penn State extension agricultural engineers.
