NEW... POWER TAKE-OFF BALER

For Family Size Farms

This sleek power take-off baler is the newest machine on the 1954 haying scene. Engineers say the Model 66 power take-off baler is the fastest P.T.O. baler made, with a capacity of up to 7 tons an hour. The new baler's over-riding clutch makes P.T.O. haying practical.

Farm Experts Look Ahead; See Big Food Needs Facing Nation in 1960

By IRA MILLER
Farm Electrification Bureau

The agricultural industry, like so many others, has had its share of peaks and valleys during the present year. Still it has held firm to a continuing trend of making farm work would have been impossible to reach. At that time farmers plowed an average of 2 acres a day, instead of around 2 acres an hour, and cultivated 6, rather than 60 acres of corn per day. It's the same story around the farmstead where electricity is taking on a greater number of chores, and doing them faster and easier. A silo unloader, for example, can reduce the time of getting down silage for a 24-cow herd from 10 minutes to about 10 seconds. Cleaning barn gutters with a mechanical gutter cleaner or high pressure hose can be done in 5 minutes, compared with 22 minutes in a barn housing about 25 cows. The endless job of carrying water for stock can be turned over to a pressure water system, and worries about weather damage to grain and storage crops practically eliminated by new drying equipment.

In the home, farmers are using electricity for cooking, heating water, refrigerating, washing, ironing and drying clothes; they're enjoying radio and TV, and reading by electric lights just as their city cousins do. Indeed, the farm of today is a great place on which to live; it should be an even better place in the future.

Years ahead look like busy time for farmers.

Farm Calendar

FEED STEERS CHEAPLY

Cattle feeders planning to graze yearling steers on good pasture next summer should not feed much grain this winter, says Thomas King, extension livestock specialist of the Pennsylvania State University. Winter them largely on good roughage consisting of high-quality hay and grass-legume or corn silage.

GIRDLE PULPWOOD TREES

Chemical girdling is a new way of loosening the bark on trees cut for pulpwood production. Walter Simonds, Penn State extension forester, says the treatment consists of a 6- to 12-inch sap peeler girdle, about waist high around the tree, which is painted liberally with a solution of sodium arsenite.

PREVENT FARM FIRES

Every year farm property worth at least $90 million is lost by fire. Most of this loss could be prevented, Penn State extension agricultural engineers point out. Defective chimneys and careless handling and improper use of combustible materials rank high as causes of farm fires during the heating season.

FEED BROOD SOWS

Proper feeding and management are of great importance in the second half of the gestation period for sows bred for early spring farrowing, reminds Dwight Younklin, Penn State extension livestock specialist. Feed well-balanced rations.

SOW RELIABLE OATS

Spring oats varieties recommended for 1954, according to Elmer Pifer, Penn State extension agronomist, are Clinton 59, Clinton 11, Clinton 11-25, Craig, Ajax, and Zephyr. Ajax and Zephyr are not recommended where lodging is a problem.

DECIDE REARING PROGRAM

Whether to raise chickens in confinement or on the range must be decided by the poultryman after careful consideration of the advantages and disadvantages, reminds Robert Lauffer, Penn State extension poultry specialist.

FARM STOCK SOLD

Farm stock and implements were sold Saturday at the farm of Daniel H. Lehman, who lives between Ironville and Columbia. Included in the sale were cows, $200 to $390 each; calves and heifers, $50 to $140 each; shoats, $29 each; a hay baler, $610; tractors, $415 and $510; and a manure spreader, $377. Auctioneer was Elmer Kauffman.
