CAREERS IN GIRL SCOUTING

NEW AND FAST-GROWING CAREER FIELD — professional work in Girl Scouting—is attracting women like Donna Henderson (left), of Fort Dodge, Iowa, who is working for the Yonkers, New York, Girl Scout Council as district director. She is one of 1500 professional workers holding full-time, paid executive positions with Girl Scout councils. In her variety-filled job she plans with volunteers in carrying out the Scout program for girls in her community, trains troop leaders and consultants, coordinates summer camp activities, and cooperates with other professional people for the welfare of youth. According to the National Girl Scout Organization, there are more than 200 jobs like hers now open in all parts of the country. A recruiting drive is underway to acquaint women with the many opportunities, satisfactions, and benefits of joining the Girl Scouts in an executive capacity. For further information write to Girl Scout National Headquarters, Dept. G, in New York City.
