PASTURE FEEDS POULTRY

At least 95 percent of the pullets produced in Pennsylvania are reared on range, estimates Robert Lauffer, Penn State extension poultry specialist. Good pasture provides many of the feed nutrients which chickens need. It also furnishes vitamins A and G and some minerals.

PRUNE GRAPE VINES - If grape vines have not been pruned, don't delay, reminds Carl Bittner, Penn State extension pomologist. Use the long-cane method of pruning. Select four good canes of last year's growth and prune out all other growth. The canes chosen should be thrifty and of moderate size. Cut each cane to leave 10 to 15 buds.

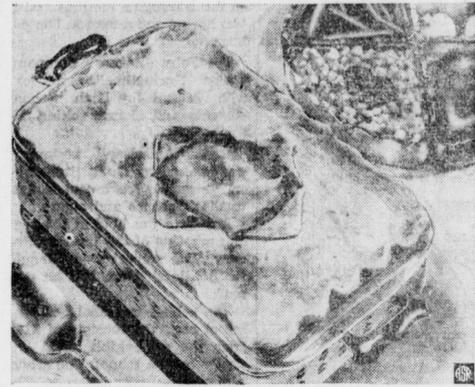

FEED THE BEES - Check on your bees to see if they need feeding, urges William Clarke, Penn State extension apiculturist. The best way to feed a needy colony is with combs of honey. Second choice is a heavy sugar syrup. As an emergency measure, you can use dry sugar on the inner cover, with the hole in the inner cover open.

POTATO ACREAGE DOWN - Herbert McFeely, Penn State extension marketing specialist, reports that potato growers' intentions to plant indicate a reduction of 7 per cent in potato acreage for the late and intermediate states for 1954.

PROTECT PLANTS - Damping-off results in more failures of vegetable plants in the seedbed than any other factor, says Allen Bauer, Penn State extension plant pathologist. Formaldehyde is effective in sterilizing small lots of soil to kill fungi.

SHEARING SCHOOLS SETS - Penn State extension livestock specialists announce three sheep shearing schools: in Mercer county, May 17-18, in Greene county, May 19-20, and in Franklin county, May 21-22.

An Elegant Dish 'Tis True—Made With Left-Over Turkey or Chicken

For a simple solution to that old problem of what to do with left-over turkey or chicken, bake a pie! Not the sweet variety but a good casserole dish, topped with a golden brown crust. The turkey is combined with what we call a casserole natural—Niblets brand corn. The golden field-fresh flavor and stalk-fresh color of Niblets make it an outstanding casserole ingredient. The flavor is distinctive enough to be easily recognized even when used in a seasoned sauce as in this recipe. This is another famous recipe from the test kitchens of the Green Giant Company.

Left-Over Turkey Pie
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
4 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
dash Mace
pinch of Tarragon
2 cups milk
1 can Niblets brand corn
1 can mushrooms, if desired
Left-over turkey slices

Melt butter in double boiler, stir in flour, salt, pepper, mace and tarragon. Stir in milk gradually; cook over boiling water, stirring until thickened. Add corn and mushrooms. Pour sauce into buttered 11x7x1 1/2 inch casserole. Cover with turkey slices. Top with pastry crust, rolled 1/2 inch thick. Bake about 1/2 hour in a hot oven (450°F.).

DAIRY HERDSMEN TAKE CATTLE SHORT COURSE

A few more applicants can be accepted for the Dairy Cattle Herdsmen short course at the Pennsylvania State University, according to A. L. Beam, director of short courses. This short course is scheduled for March 29 to April 2 and is given only once each year, he said.

Primarily intended for persons actively engaged in dairy herd management, this short course provides both a 'refresher' and new and current information on virtually all subjects related to dairy-farm management. Subjects included are: breeding, feeding, calf rearing, soils, forages, pastures, and dairy farm records. Disease prevention also is stressed, as well as management involving milk production, Prof. Beam said.

PRIZE LIVESTOCK USED IN STATE SHOW APR. 24

Animals which have won national and international prizes are among those being groomed for the 'Little International,' annual student livestock show at the Pennsylvania State University on April 24. Edgar Fehnel, Nazareth, show manager, said interest already shown by students makes this year's event, 'extremely promising.'

Easter Smoker-Dance Planned For April 9

An Easter smoker-dance has been planned by the Walter S. Ebersole Legion Post 185 for Friday evening, April 9. In former years smokers were held but never a smoker-dance combination.

This spring, the combination will be held at the post home. Hams will be chanced off at the affair.

A new orchestra has been engaged for the dance to be held in the green room. The Nite Owls will be the new musical group to play. One well-known musician who is a former Mt. Joy man, Russel Rinehart, plays with the group.
