Tests Show Low Water Pressure

Miller Says Problem Will Be Corrected

Using six pumping engines, five fire companies from Zone 7 held a relay Sunday afternoon to test the water supply and pressure in the vicinity of the Mount Joy Mills, Mount Joy Street. The two Mount Joy engines connected to plugs at the corners of North Barbara and Frank Streets and North Barbara and Mount Joy Streets.

Florin connected at the Union National Bank on the North Barbara Street side; Marietta connected to a plug on East Main Street near the bank; Rheems connected on North High Street and Salunga connected on the corner of North High and Mount Joy Streets. Since there was no water at all in the latter pump, the Salunga firemen changed to the plug on Mount Joy Street opposite the Sico gas station.

Following the test, Ray Myers, fire chief, collaborated with the firemen from the other towns and they decided that if a fire would break out in the northeastern section of the borough, it would be necessary to relay water from the Little Chiques Creek. The test was conducted as a sample measure so that companies would know just what to do. (A test similar to this was done some years prior to the big Schock lumber yard at 8:00 p.m. in the firehouse.
