The Senior Commercial students taking Office Practice study quite a number of office machines. Under the supervision of Mrs. Bette Lutze, commercial teacher, each student has had an opportunity to have a thorough course on the Dictaphone. This machine was rented this year. At different times the students get an opportunity to type on the electric typewriter which is in the office. The Remington Rand Company puts out an extensive adding machine course, and different students spend time on the adding machine learning the touch

The Senior Commercial students took Clerk Typist and Stenography tests given by Mrs. Crankshaw from the Marietta Depot. These tests were given April 26, 1954. In several days the students will know whether or not they passed by being told if they are ineligible or if given a rating. They can file an application blank.

Several girls have gone for interviews at Armstrong's in Lancaster. Patricia Sager and Joann Fornoff have been told they will start work after school is over. Betty Nein is working after
