STORAGE TIMES FOR BEEF ARE EXPLAINED

The coldest part of the refrigerator is the spot to store fresh beef. Marjorie J. Wormeck, extension nutritionist of the Pennsylvania State University, says beef may be stored loosely covered or without a cover.

It should be used within a few days. Variety meats are especially perishable and should be used within 2 days. Ground beef holds well for one day only.

Frankfurters and bologna keep better than fresh beef but they deteriorate and change flavor if kept a long time. Broth and gravies are stored covered in the refrigerator and used promptly.

Penna. Game Commission

In the Game Commission's fiscal year ending May 31, 1954 the number of bounty claims honored was 14,191. Payment of rewards for the killing of certain predatory animals and great horned owls totaled $140,926 in that period.

In the year just ended bounty was paid on wild creatures as follows: weasels, 10,757; gray foxes, 14,730; red foxes, 16,266; great horned owls, 1,237.

Both claim and bounty payments have declined steadily in recent years. In the previous fiscal year 15,476 valid claims caused payment of $159,548. In the twelve-month period before that $226,014 were paid for 18,830 claims submitted.

Boy Shoots Companion In Mistake For Woodchuck

The first 1954 report of a human death chargeable to woodchuck hunting in Pennsylvania has been received at the Harrisburg office of the Game Commission. It falls into a familiar pattern.

The fact of this case again points out the causes of many such unnecessary tragedies: The offending gunner did not make certain his quarry was a woodchuck before firing, and the victim failed to wear a simple safety guard — a white, or bright identifying headpiece.

The record shows the "accident" occurred on May 21, in Fayette County. The offender, a lad 16 years of age, fatally shot a 13-year-old hunting companion in the head with a .22 caliber rifle. The victim "put his head up by a log. He moved his head just like a groundhog does when he comes out of a hole and starts looking around" reported the shooter.

Game Protector Follows Nose To Evidence

An item from a recent issue of the Kittanning Daily Leader Times tells that an Armstrong County Game Protector named Bill Shaffer solved an illegal wild game killing. He apprehended the violator and catalogued the evidence — a turkey had been shot from the stove oven.

Shaffer went after after receiving a report turkey had been shot from the stove oven. The other had already been consumed ther-in-law. Both men fined.

The big "tom" had been shot two days 30-30 caliber rifle was arm used, the Leader said.

Conservation Camp

A conservation camp for girls is planned for summer. Subjects to be covered and camp experiences for the attending Pennsylvania girls will be the same as those provided for boys in previous Junior Conservation Camps. Ladies having Girl Scout counseling or directing experience, will provide the leadership.

The Pennsylvania Federation of Garden Clubs, Pennsylvania Women's Club and the Pennsylvania Roadside Council, Inc., will be the sponsors of the girls camp. They will recruit the attendees and defray their camp expenses, and each unit will provide transportation to and from camp for the girls it sends.

The camping period will cover thirteen days, August 5-18, and will follow that last boys' group this summer. Tentative plans call for a quota of 40 to 50 freshmen and sophomore high school girls.

The well equipped Forestry Camp of The Penna. State University will house the girls. Located 15 miles southwest of the town of State College, it has been the site of the Junior Conservation Camp for boys for several years.

Nature's Children Set Forest Fires

Last year a moose and a mouse collaborated to start a forest fire in Ontario. This year a woodpecker and a snake got together to start one near Birmingham, Alabama. So reports a U. S. Forest Service representative.

A timber cutting crew spotted smoke and investigated. The men found a fire spreading from a power line right-of-way. After the ground blaze was controlled they noticed sparks and burning embers dropping from a cross-arm on a utility pole. Examination revealed that a woodpecker had hollowed out a hole near the top of the pole, built a nest and started a brood of young. A snake had climbed the pole and devoured one of the young woodpeckers. In doing so its tail contacted two wires. The resulting electric shock killed the snake and sparked a fire in the partly rotten cross-arm.
