when you DRIVE
or TELEPHONE
you get there FASTER when you know the right number

When you drive, you want to get to your destination the quickest, shortest way. And to do that you need to know the proper highway number.

The same is true in making a long distance phone call. When you know the number—and give it to the operator—you get your party more quickly.

As a time-saving convenience, why not keep a list handy of long distance numbers you call frequently? Then you avoid "detours" to information that delay your connection.
