

Exhibit Group To Purchase Prefab Show Building

Titus Rutt, chairman of the Mount Joy Community Exhibit, was given the authority to purchase a prefabricated building, sized 18x50 to be used to exhibit school work at the local exhibit in October. The building will be used during the four days of the show, October 13-16 and will then be stored to be used again the following year.

The group also decided to hold the tractor driving contest Saturday, October 16, at 12:00 noon at the Red Top Grain Elevator. A post-fair banquet was again scheduled; this year for Wednesday, October 20.

Another Miss Pennsylvania of Mount Joy will be chosen and will lead the third annual JayCee parade the opening night of the fair. Thursday night's feature will be the annual Corn Queen contest which will be in charge of Farm Women Society No. 8.

The annual pushmobile race will be run Saturday afternoon on Manheim Street. At the present time, the premium catalogue is being assembled. The next meeting of the group will be held Monday evening, Aug. 30.

Pennsylvania Week Celebration Oct. 10-17

Harrisburg — Pennsylvania communities were urged to give out-of-state visitors a type of civic welcome usually reserved for very important persons, as part of the Pennsylvania Week celebration Oct. 10 through 17.

Ross L. Leffler, state chairman for Pennsylvania Week, has asked municipalities to adopt the plan of the Exchange Club of Chester to extend a surprise welcome, with VIP trimmings, to visitors entering the city from nearby New Jersey. Visitors will be selected at random from out-of-state motor cars, greeted by the Mayor's representative and accompanied by a flag-bedecked police escort to the club's weekly luncheon meeting and a seat of honor.

So successful was the VIP welcome given an Oklahoma couple during Pennsylvania Week two years ago, Mr. Leffler said, members have decided to repeat the affair next October. Leffler said he hopes service clubs generally throughout the State would arrange similar welcome for visitors.

Boy Scouts Make Site Projects

Three projects were judged as the best exhibits at the regular weekly meeting of the local Boy Scouts. The weekly project was for each patrol and its members to make a model camp site using boxes, dirt, paper for tents and other natural surroundings.

The winning exhibits were made by Robert Buchenauer and John Funk in the Beaver patrol; Edward Forry in the Hawk patrol and Harold Etsell and Terry Schofield in the Flaming Arrow patrol. The winning patrol was the Beaver patrol.

These projects, judged by the troop committee, will be on display in both the Bulletin and the Aeme store windows. Ronald Schofield, senior patrol leader, was in charge of the affair.

Damages Are Reported From Wind Storm

Mount Joy suffered storm damage Monday night as a wind storm followed by a rain storm hit the area. At 7:00 p. m. the wind storm started. The electricity in the area was disconnected for a half hour until repairs could be made to fallen wires.

An automobile belonging to Park Neiss, Jr., which was parked on High Street near his home, was damaged when a tree in front of Mrs. Anna Longenecker's residence split and fell on the auto. The top was damaged and the sides of the car were badly scratched. At the same time the tree fell on the car, it also pulled down electric wires across East Main Street.

One automobile drove over the fallen wires but a second slammed on his brakes to avoid driving over the live wires. As he stopped, another auto drove into his car. A slight traffic jam resulted until S. H. Miller, West Main Street, disconnected the wires so that traffic could proceed.

The chimney on the home of Frank Gladdiger, East Donegal Street, toppled over through the wind storm.

Within one day, fifty years ago Mount Joy suffered a serious wind and rain storm. Aug. 17, 1904, the interior of the Mt. Joy Methodist church was partially ruined when a storm arose during the slating of the church roof.

Scouts To Stage House-To-House Canvass Tues.

The scheduled house-to-house canvass for funds for the local Boy Scout building will be staged Tuesday evening, August 24. The drive had previously been announced for Monday evening but since there is a conflicting town activity that evening, the drive will be held next Tuesday.

Members of the Rotary Club, JayCees, the Boy Scout troop committee, Boy Scouts and Explorers will take over the one-night drive. They will assemble at the Gerberich-Payne Shoe factory office at 7:00 p. m.

At the present time, the drive for funds has gone over the half-way mark. Striving for a goal of $2,000, the committee has already received $1,072. In large gifts, from businesses, industries and individuals.

Renovation work will be started on the building in the near future.

Lions Hold Family Picnic

A letter of thanks was received from Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kelley, Detroit, Michigan by the Mount Joy Lions Club. The Kelleys were the couple that the local police stopped as they were driving through the borough fifteen minutes prior to the regular dinner meeting of the group last month. They were invited to attend the Lions meeting and did so. The letter of thanks and telling of their Pennsylvania travels was read at the regular meeting of the group Tuesday evening.

One hundred and one persons attended the annual family picnic Tuesday. Paul Gingrich, president, was in charge of the meeting and Charles Hersey was in charge of the games.

IN THE HOSPITAL

Mrs. Paul H. Diffenderfer, Main Street, Florin, is a surgical patient in the Lancaster General Hospital. Her condition is reported improved at this writing.

Hamilton To Display New Space Clock

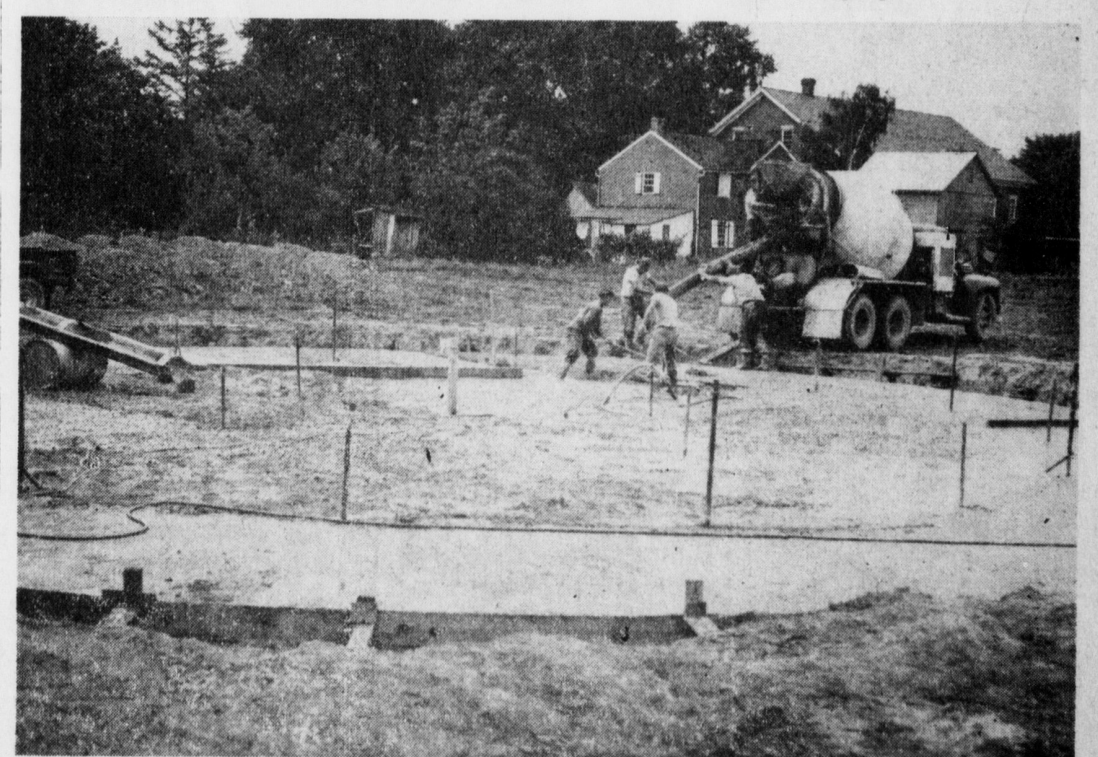

These interested Barnard College girls show varied reactions as they listen to the tickings of this Hamilton Space Clock, which tells time simultaneously on Mars and on the earth. It could be that they would rather live on Mars, where time drags twice as slowly as it does on earth. For instance, a two-week vacation on Mars would be a four-week vacation on earth. The Space Clock divides the Mars year into the conventional twelve months and into Mars days of 24 hours, 37 minutes and 23 seconds. Numbers around the face indicate Martian Time, and small dial in the center tells earth time, the dial at the left is the Mars month-year calendar and the one at the right is the earth month-year calendar. The Space Clock will be the center of an exhibit by its manufacturer, the Hamilton Watch Company of Lancaster, at the First Annual Pennsylvania Industrial and Construction Exposition to be held in Harrisburg the week of September 20.

Workmen Completing Base For Standpipe

Workmen are shown pouring concrete for the base of the standpipe which is being erected at the corner of David and Lumber Streets.

Work is expected to be completed today (Thursday) on the base for the standpipe. The concrete which was laid this week is heavily fortified by steel at the bottom. The standpipe is expected to arrive in about three weeks and will hold one million gallons (Turn to page 2)
