TAKE STEPS
 TO BUSINESS
SUCCESS

Multiple Ducts Improve Hay Dryer

Air can be blown upward easily from the duct of a barn hay drier through only 5 or 6 feet of damp hay. Floating ducts installed during hay storage at the Pennsylvania State University Agricultural Experiment Station allowed air to reach all parts of the mow except the corners. Escaping air was measured as shown in the insert.

Draught Reduced
Jap Beetle Invasion

Dry weather discouraged emergence of Japanese beetles this summer in Pennsylvania.

Few reports of heavy infestation compared with other years were received by the State Department of Agriculture.

However, the presence of the pests and the damage they do are recognized in a Department announcement today that restrictions on movement of fresh corn on the cob will be continued until September 30. Clearance following Federal-State inspections has been observed since June on only the interstate movement of fresh fruit and vegetables, trucks, refrigerator fresh corn on the cob, all restrictions were lifted on August 27th.

Reduction in reported beetle numbers in Pennsylvania this year is attributed in part to eradication campaigns conducted for many years by the State Department of Agriculture in establishing colonies of wasp parasites and the distribution of "milky disease" in heavily infested areas. Neither parasites nor milky disease harm anything except Jap beetle grubs which they kill before the grubs can turn into beetles to emerge from the ground, observers explained.

WEBB REUNION
 TO BE HELD SEPT. 19
 The descendants of James E. Webb will hold their seventh annual reunion at the Donegal Club House Sunday Sept. 19th, at 2 p. m. Please bring a basket lunch.

He's Learning
From Someone
Who "Knows"

Steering youngsters on their way is no quick trick. There's so much to be passed on - so much love and care and "how to do it." Perhaps, above all, young people need to learn the art of getting along with one another, and with the community. Home, of course, is where it all starts - this thing called "education." But home gets a strong assist from the Y... the Scouts... Boys' Clubs... other youth groups providing good American training in leadership, sportsmanship, craftsmanship. Boys and girls are in strong, safe hands when you support youth services by giving the "United Way."

Home Calender

Timely Reminders from The Pennsylvania State University College of Agriculture

Eggs Needed - Angel food needs eggs for lightness. Measure eggs whites rather than count them. One cup egg white for one cup flour is a good proportion. Then it doesn't matter whether the eggs are pullet or large and you can take advantage of the current low price of pullet eggs. This same method can be used for sponge cake.

Fight Moths - Vacuum cleaners and carpet sweepers are armor in the fight against moths. They should be used at least several times a week. Breaks, creases, seams, folds, and baseboard areas need special attention. Each area is a likely hiding place for the gluttonous insects.

Select Pears - Pears that are soft or yield to pressure at the base of the stem are usually mature and ready to eat. But they are too ripe to hold for future use.

Hanging Fiberglass Drapes - If you use fiberglass for draw or traverse draperies, hang them just off the floor and slightly away from window sills or other objects. Otherwise they might rub and snag the fabric.
