Big enough for leadership...

Never too big for friendship

The Independent Telephone Industry has grown up with the spirit of friendly community service

It's big... 5,100 Independent Telephone Companies... more than nine million telephones... serving two-thirds of the entire area of the U.S. It's a 1 1/2 billion dollar industry today—double what it was ten short years ago. Yet, for all its size and scope, it is an industry composed of local companies, managed by local people, serving local needs. And though it is growing larger by the day, it will never outgrow its responsible role in community affairs, its personal concern with the welfare of neighbors and customers. For America's Independent Telephone Industry, no task is too large...no service too small.

SAVORY FISH AND RICE CASSEROLE

- 1 1/4 pounds frozen fish, fillets
- 1/2 cup minced onions
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 3/4 cup uncooked rice
- 1 1/2 cups water
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon marjoram
- 2 tablespoons minced parsley
- 1 1/4 cups milk
- salt and pepper

Thaw fish and separate fillets. Cook onions in 2 tablespoons of the butter until soft. Add rice, water, salt, pepper, marjoram, and parsley. Bring to a rapid boil. Lower heat to simmer; cover. Cook about 14 minutes, without removing lid, until rice is tender. Spread in buttered 10 x 6 x 2-inch baking pan. Arrange fish fillets over rice.

Scald milk in the same pan in which rice was cooked. Pour over fish and rice. Dot with remaining butter and sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper. Bake in slow oven (325°) until milk is almost all absorbed and fish flakes easily. Yield: 6 servings.

Tobacco Crop Better Than '53

Production of cigar leaf tobacco on Pennsylvania farms this season is estimated at 42,609,000 pounds, the State Dept. of Agriculture announced following a Federal-State survey. The estimate, made as of October 1, showed an increase of 529,000 pounds over the Sept. 1 forecast and 22 per cent more than the 34,794,000 pounds harvested in 1953. However, the 1954 crop estimate is 14 percent below the 10-year average of 49,652,000 pounds.

For type 41 tobacco, grown in Lancaster and adjoining counties, the yield is forecast at 1620 pounds per acre and production at 42,120,000 pounds. September weather was good for growth, maturity and cutting of the crop.

Many crop reporters commented that recovery and growth after the dry period at plant setting time was the most phenomenal that they had ever seen. Rapid growth during August and early September made for good length and thin leaf, and as a result the crop is heavy and of good quality. Much less than the usual infestation of insects and disease was present during the growing period. Cutting was practically completed by the end of September.

For Type 53 tobacco, grown in Clinton and nearby counties, yield per acre is estimated at 1,630 pounds and production at 489,000 pounds. Growing conditions in the north central area were better during the entire season than in the south central. Cutting was practically completed on Type 53 by the end of September. Some damage occurred in this area during the third week of September from high winds and rain.

Your Health

Hospitals may be over-crowded — but not with pneumonia cases.

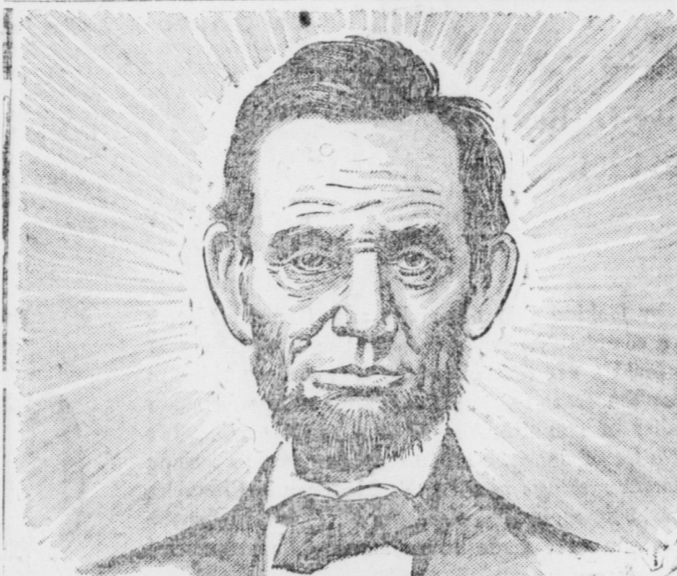

Only a few years ago, hospitals in the winter months had solid floors of pneumonia patients. Today, because of penicillin and terramycin, it is unnecessary for most patients to go to a hospital. They can be treated as effectively and more conveniently and economically at home.

Once a leading killer at all ages, pneumonia is now an important cause of death mainly among infants less than a year old whose defenses against infection are weak, and among the old in whom pneumonia is often secondary to other diseases. The antibiotics are effective against both the virus and the bacterial types of pneumonia and they have reduced the incidence of many other respiratory infectious diseases common in winter such as streptococcal sore throat, tonsillitis and scarlet fever.

While susceptibility to pneumonia is general, there are factors in the individual or in the environment that increase the incidence of pneumonia. Extreme exposure to cold may lead to pneumonia infection, although people who live in cold climates are less susceptible to the disease than those in climates that are variable, which indicates sudden change from warm to cold may bring on the disease.

It has been well established that alcoholic intoxication destroys a person's resistance to pneumonia. Pneumonia is considered one of the complications of a neglected common cold. In at least 75 per cent of pneumonia cases, there is a history of a cold within the previous week or two, while the patient kept at work and failed to get proper treatment.
