

OWL LAFFS

BY A WISE OWL

There comes a time in every man's life when he sits down, thinks over all the mistakes he has made, shakes his head sadly, and wishes he was young enough to make 'em all over again.

However, I'll never forget our wedding day. My big fat wife was so nervous that she was speechless. And that was the last time.

There's one advantage to being married—a man can't make a fool of himself without knowing it.

"Les" Kaylor, proprietor of Kaylor's Restaurant on W. Main Street, bought himself a hunting dog to go to shooting matches. Last Saturday he took the canine and Uncle "Spook" and Walter Young to a match back the country — after about 18 or 20 shots (at the block) the trio decided to leave — on their way home they discussed their hard luck, and came to the conclusion the dog was no good. — But after arguing the thing out they decided to give the pooch another chance. — Next Saturday they're going to another match and this time the dog will do the shooting.

Have a little care Jake Landwater! I heard you were down at Shreve's Inn last Saturday night, talking about the "Wise Owl".

Russ Sumpman says women pay no attention to the weather. They wear furs in the summer, and Nylons in the winter — Last winter, he said to his wife: "Look at these girls on the street. I don't see what keeps them from freezing." And his wife said: "You're not supposed to."

"We hear it takes the wool of 20 sheep to clothe a U. S. soldier. It also takes the hides of 10 tax payers."

Down at one of the stores in Lancaster, Saturday afternoon, a drunk walked into an elevator shaft, fell four floors to the bottom, stood up, brushed himself off and muttered: "I said UP!"

Arriving home earlier than usual, a west warder found his wife in the arms of his best friend.

"I love your wife," said the interloper, "and she loves me. I'll play you a game of cards for her; if I win, you divorce her, and if you win, I promise never to see her again. Will you play gin rummy with me?"

"All right," agreed the husband. "And how about a nicker to a point to make it interesting?"

A Mount Joy Street man's symptoms were alarming enough to take him to a doctor for a check-up. Having fortified himself at a tavern, he went thru the examination and waited in the reception room. When the doctor appeared, the man asked eagerly: "What does the report show, Doc?"

Doctor: "According to this analysis there is every indication that a small percentage of blood is getting into your alcohol system."

Today's best labor-saving device is tomorrow."

Teacher, patiently: If one and one makes two, and two and two makes four, how much does four and four make?

Old-enough-to vote hillbilly pupil: That ain't fair, teacher. You answer the easy ones yourself and leave the hard one for me.

Did you hear about the guy whose wife had quadruplets, and then he went out and bought a fifth?

LET'S ADVERTISE MOUNT JOY

The newly completed standpipe would be ideal for advertising Mount Joy. It can be seen from points all over the countryside. The painting of "Mount Joy" in large letters on this standpipe would be good advertising for the community.

More on the subject of signs: Some nice signs identifying the borough as motorists approach it along well-traveled Route 230 would be desirable advertising. This might be a worthy project for several organizations to work together on.

HOW ABOUT SEWERS?

Mount Joy, a town with a future! It doesn't take too much imagination to visualize a borough with a considerably larger population, a borough continually on the move, a borough up to date and modern.

Mount Joy is ideally located for more industry and for more residential development. There is much here to attract new residents—fine schools, fine parks, friendly people, good churches and a host of other good features.

BUT the lack of a sewer system can be nothing but a deterrent to prospective industrial and residential developers. And to the people living in the borough this lack of sewers poses a continually increasing problem.

And to the people of Florin there is the same need. More than a year ago now there was a movement started, surveys taken and considerable interest shown in a proposition for Florin to join with Mount Joy in solving this common problem.

When is Mount Joy going to get sewers?
What has happened to the Florin project?

TRIBUTE TO PRIVATE ENTERPRISE

Most people think of the telephone industry in terms of a single major system. However, as in the case of other typical American enterprises, the excellent telephone service which is taken for granted in even the smallest communities, is in considerable part a product of the tireless energy of managements in scores of independent companies, whose importance is steadily increasing.

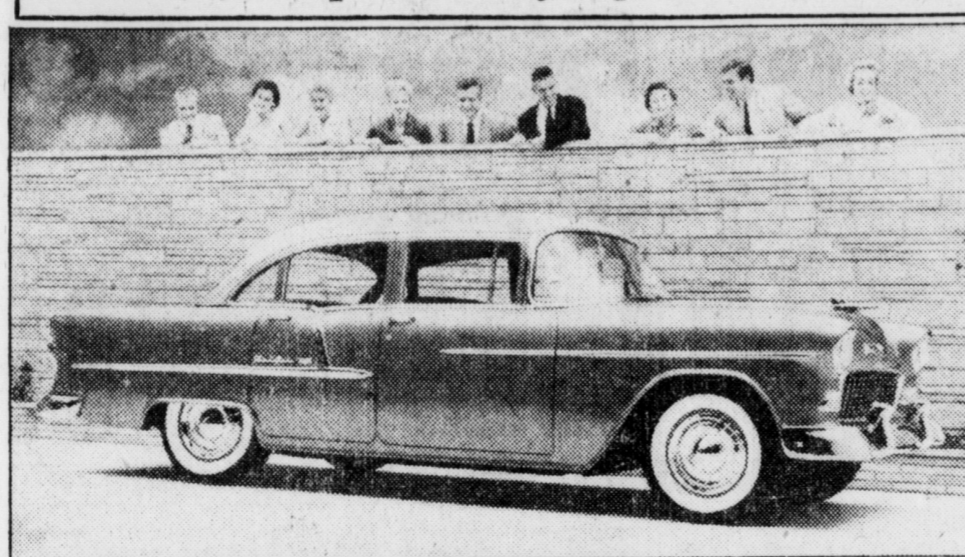

In the words of Newsweek magazine, "A striking phenomenon of the postwar years has been the steady shift of industry from large population centers to small ones. A little-noticed but significant by-product of this has been the mushrooming growth of so-called independent telephone companies which, with a few exceptions, serve the small communities." Newsweek then went on to describe the development of one of these companies which recently announced a "streamlining" program to keep pace with its rapid growth. This particular company through 16 subsidiaries serves part of 21 states. It has assets of about $500,000,000. Its new construction budget this year is $80,000,000. It will convert 59,200 phones to dial operation.

What makes all of this doubly significant is the fact that here is an industry about which the public knows little, going ahead with the job of furnishing a vital service to the rural areas from the federal treasury, and yet our country has the best telephone service in the world. If this isn't a tribute to tax-paying, business-managed private enterprise, what is?

TEAM WINS FIRST VICTORY

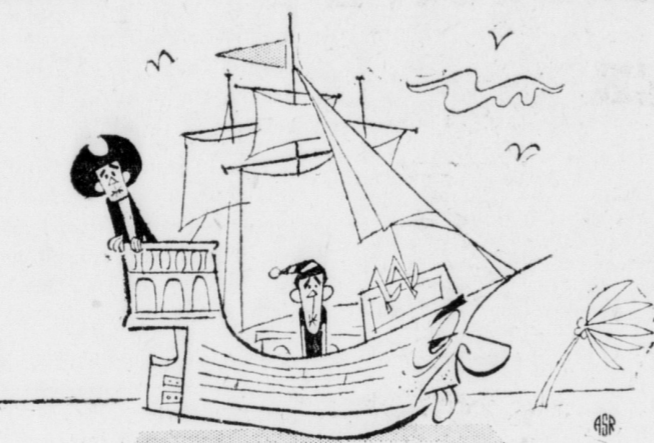

With a goal by Zodie Markley Donegal High School, won its first hockey game. The game was a make-up game with Manheim Central High School and the locals won 1-0 when Zodie scored within the last three minutes of play.

V8 Power; Complete Re-styling Mark Chevrolets

A styling advance from any point of view is claimed by the company for 1955 Chevrolets. The latest lineup of 14 models has been completely restyled and in addition incorporates the widest array of chassis improvements ever offered by Chevrolet on a new model. Lower, sleeker lines are accompanied by new frames, new suspensions, new operating devices and new power. With the optional Powerglide or overdrive and new V8 engine plus two six-cylinder engines, a customer has a choice of six "power packages." The Bel Air 4-door sedan is pictured above.

Food Sense—Not Nonsense

Winds Blew Free—But Sailors Had No 'C'

"Of those who sailed the high seas of old, it rarely could be said, 'they never had it so good.' Food supplies on voyages were limited and outbreaks of scurvy were common. Scurvy is now known to be caused by lack of vitamin C.

It was by chance that sailors discovered that citrus fruits could prevent scurvy. Science revealed that the anti-scurvy—antiscorbatic—properties were due to the acid—vitamin C—now known as ascorbic acid. Although scurvy is rare in this country today, a lack of adequate amounts of ascorbic acid in the diet can be recognized. A shortage will result in weakened walls of the capillaries—those tiny blood vessels which form an amazing network in the body. Those who have mild shortages may bruise easily. Lack of energy, muddy complexions and slow healing of wounds are other indications of a deficiency. Scurvy in children is frequently diagnosed as infantile rheumatism. If a deficiency of vitamin C is not too advanced, it may be corrected by adequate amounts of the vitamin in the diet.

Because the body is limited in its ability to store vitamin C, this nutrient must be obtained daily. The easiest way to meet the daily C requirement is through a good breakfast. A well planned breakfast will not only furnish vitamin C but will furnish significant portions of the other nutrients we require. Enriched or whole grain cereal or toast, an egg or serving of breakfast meat and a glass of milk supply the breakfast's share of proteins, B vitamins and minerals.

Daily use of canned or fresh tomatoes, or tomato juice is also a simple way to get one's vitamin C. Often overlooked as sources of this nutrient are potatoes, cabbage and green vegetables, especially if uncooked. Although vitamin C is more readily destroyed by heat or exposure to air than other vitamins, it is not always lost in cooking; most of the original "C" is retained in a baked potato. Acid fruits, prepared and refrigerated overnight lose little of this vitamin by breakfast time.

Launches Diabetes Education Project

HARRISBURG: In an effort to find the estimated thousands of Pennsylvanians who have diabetes but do not know it, the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania has launched a state-wide newspaper, television and radio public education program to help these diabetics.

"A person with diabetes can get the medical care they need, work and live a practically normal life if he keeps his ailment under control by modern methods," declared Dr. Garfield G. Duncan, of Philadelphia, chairman of the Commission on Diabetes of the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania. "But an unknown diabetic's condition will be a serious handicap to him in his work and is a threat to the development of serious complications."

Diabetes, explained Dr. Duncan, can be present in an individual for a long time without revealing any alarming symptoms, but, if left undetected, it may grow more serious and even prove fatal in time. Many cases of diabetes, particularly in older persons, can be controlled by diet alone, added Dr. Duncan, and the discovery of insulin, thirty years ago, has made control possible in those who have had the disease for long periods.

One-minute television films, dramatically presented the story of diabetes detection, are being shown throughout the state, together with short spot announcements on radio. The American Diabetes Association is sponsoring a nation-wide Diabetes Week program designed to arouse interest in diabetes education and detection and to stimulate use of testing facilities. There is an estimated one million Americans who have diabetes and do not know it.

Reports Good Public Response To New Chevrolet

One of the largest crowds ever to witness the showing of a new car, saw the new 1955 Chevrolet make its debut last week, according to C. S. Newcomer of Newcomer Motors Inc. the local Chevrolet dealer.

"We were extremely pleased with the public response to the new models," he said. "The compliments received from our visitors gave an enthusiastic stamp of endorsement to the all-new Chevrolet now on display in our showroom. It was a great 'open-house', and we are still playing host to our friends who wish to inspect this great new car."

The local dealer's comments reflected national reports on the unveiling of the '55 Chevrolet, which was acclaimed by millions of car conscious Americans who inspected the new model in showrooms across the Country.
