An All-Time Favorite

A big dish of succulent Sauerkraut and Pork Hocks is a sure-hit with the men in the family. Both the sauerkraut and pork hocks (or knuckles) are easy on the food pennies.

If your family prefers another vegetable instead of sauerkraut, canned greens, or green and wax beans are seasoned to perfection with pork hocks. Cook the meat slowly and add the vegetables a few minutes before serving. Where time is an element, cook the hocks the night before or in the morning and store in the refrigerator. Serve fluffy mashed potatoes, canned spiced peaches or apricots, and a crisp salad to round out the main course. It's an easy meal to get when you use canned foods. The cleaning and pre-work has been done in the canners' kitchens.

Sauerkraut and Pork Hocks

2 cups water 1½ teaspoons salt
3 lbs. pork hocks 1 No. 2½ can sauerkraut
(4 to 6 hocks)

Bring water to boiling; add pork hocks and salt. Cover and simmer very gently until tender (about 2 hours). Add sauerkraut and continue to simmer for another 10 minutes. Four to six generous servings.

TRY THESE CANNED VEGETABLE AND PORK HOCK COMBINATIONS:

- (1) Peas and onions with pork hocks.
- (2) Spinach or other greens with pork hocks.
- (3) Green or wax beans with pork hocks.

BAZAAR, FOOD SALE

A bazaar and food sale will be held Saturday, Dec. 4, by the Primary Department of the Church of God, starting at 9:30. The sale will be held in the church annex on Henry street and will feature Christmas Angels, aprons and several novelties.

CLASSMATES SURPRISE ILL STUDENT

Miss Susan Eshleman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Eshleman, Columbia Ave., was the recipient of a "sunshine" birthday box over the weekend. Confined to her house because of illness, the students in Miss Irene Heisey's third and fourth grade each placed a gift into the box for her to open at certain times.

Since Sunday was her eighth birthday, she was allowed to open five presents; for example, one after she brushed her teeth and one after the church bells ring. The others will be opened one each day.
