Light Lunch For Lithe Ladies

A feast for the eyes is this light, well-balanced luncheon plate, good to eat and easy on the figure. What nicer meal to precede a feminine afternoon of canasta or bridge—or an intimate luncheon with a dear friend. The asparagus salad, molded in lemon-flavored gelatin, can be prepared the night before. Pop the eggs in with the breakfast eggs and let them cook to the hard-cooked stage, then droll them after husband and children have gone their several ways. There'll still be two or three hours to put the house—and yourself—in order. At the last minute there is only the table to set, the rolls to heat, the charmingly simple luncheon plate to arrange. You are fresh, unruffled and free to give all your attention to guests and game. Here's how the fruit-flavored gelatin salad is made:

Asparagus Salad
Dash of pepper
1/2 teaspoon grated onion -
Diced canned asparagus
(about 2 cups)
2 tablespoons chopped pimento
1 package lemon-flavored gelatin
1 cup hot water
3/4 cup asparagus liquid and water
3 tablespoons vinegar
3/4 teaspoon salt
Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add asparagus liquid and water, vinegar, and seasonings. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold in asparagus and pimento. Turn into individual molds. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp lettuce. Garnish with mayonnaise. Makes 6 servings.
