Penna. Game Commission Weekly Letter

The snowshoe season comes in with the New Year. It opens Saturday morning, January 1, and closes Saturday evening, Jan. 8. Shooting hours are 7 a. m. to 5 p. m. all days of the season. There shall be no hunting for this animal on Sunday with in these dates. The daily bag limit is 2; the season limit is 6.

In summer this woodland creature has the general appearance of its country cousin, the cottontail rabbit. But the snowshoe, besides being larger than the cottontail and of another family, undergoes a color change in the late fall and assumes a white coat in the short-light days of the year, giving rise to the name "varying hare". Just as the hares dark coat blends with the ground cover of the warm months, so does its white pelts make him hard to see on snow.

An item indicating why the weather is a controlling factor in determining the hunters' bag of this game animal is: if the ground is bare or lightly snow-covered the smaller hounds are unable to pursue the snowshoe, but if the snow lies deep the short-legged dogs are almost worthless as trailers. These are reasons why the snowshoe rabbit kill is larger when the forest floor is bare and dark.

Under normal snow conditions in the rugged northern counties of Pennsylvania, home territory of most of the state's hares, the camouflage coats offer good protection from natural enemies.

Snowshoes are not nearly so abundant in this state now as in the early 1900's. Maturing forest, and overbrowsing by deer have caused a great reduction in their numbers. Nevertheless, many hunters will take to the woods in the northern tier counties for the first game season of 1955, hoping to enjoy some of the wide-circling chases these big-footed, ghostly rabbits afford.

Claim O' dest and Largest Hunter Titles

Game Protector Bruce Cathman, Indiana County, says: "In Blairsville we may have the state's oldest active hunter. He is Rev. R. E. McClure, age 94, who hunted the first day of the 19-4 small game season from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m."

The Ambridge, Pa. newspaper "Daily Citizen" says that's well enough but claims the state's largest hunter hails from a neighboring town. This man, a 44-year-old outdoorsman, J. D. Steele, stands 6 ft. 7 inches, and weighs 437 pounds, he is president of the Beaver Falls Sportsmen's Club. He has hunted deer for years in northcentral Pennsylvania. The paper reports that Steele hunts all day, walking slowly through the woods but covering many miles each day out.

Hunters Help Wildlife In Time of Need

In this season of cheer and good will many sportsmen, farmers, Boy Scouts and others prepare to project the spirit of giving into the New Year. Already they are planning to put out feed for certain game species that may need man's help in winter. This timely assistance generates from interested people who realize the job cannot be done adequately by the men in the state wildlife agency alone. They know that, in severe winters, the survival of some wild game could depend on man provided sustenance in certain localities over the critical months.

Many persons whose intent it was to shoot this game only a short time ago are now planning to keep it alive where natural food is scarce or snow or ice-covered. Their aim is to provide food for hungry wild game to ensure that next spring will find it healthy and strong, capable of producing well for next year's hunting sport.

Wildlife people have learned that certain birds and animals do not need, or will not accept, much if any assistance from man in winter. Among woodland species most likely to require supplemental food is the wild turkey. In protracted periods of cold and snow quail, too, may benefit from help in agricultural areas. Coveys of these game bird friends of the farmer will undoubtedly receive handouts anyway, if strictly on a sentimental basis. Many people, hunters and non-hunters alike, will strive to further the comeback of the bobwhite in Pennsylvania.

Yellow corn provides more sustenance and heat than any other grain. Many wild turkey feeders are built to hold ear corn, while others shelled corn. Quail find it difficult to take kernels from the cob, so shelled or cracked corn is recommended for them. It has been learned that wheat is not so desirable as winter food for birds. It provides energy but lacks the heat and vitamin-producing qualities of yellow corn.

One of the greatest problems involved in feeding wild turkeys is getting the corn into the rugged, often roadless "back stretch" country, home territory of numerous flocks of these magnificent birds. Game Commission personnel are presently busy filling the many large feeders built in the turkey range. They use several methods, including tractors in getting into hard-to-reach areas. But sports-

Under The Basket

The Mount Joy Merchants won their fifth straight game as they defeated I.B.E.W. 73 to 65.

It was an outstanding victory for the locals as they played without the services of Klugh, Bowman and Hershey. Their opponents consisted of players ranging from 6' 4" to 5' 11". With Zimmerman and Meminger as the only 6-footers, the locals superior ball handling and shooting soon had them on the winning path.

Changes In Social Security

Under the 1954 Amendments to the Social Security Act, there are some special provisions for the ministers of the nation. Most members of the clergy who are employed by non-profit religious, charitable, educational, or other income tax exempt organizations may begin earning social security credit for themselves after Jan. 1, 1955.

Duly ordained, commissioned, or licensed clergymen, missionaries, or members of religious orders may be brought under the social security program at their own option. The only exception to those clergymen who may begin to earn social security on Jan. 1, 1955, are those members of religious orders who are required to take a vow of poverty.

Ministers and members of religious orders who bring themselves under the old-age and survivors insurance program will be treated as self-employed persons. This will be true in the case of those who actually are self-employed as well as those clergymen who are paid a salary by their congregation.

Those who wish to be included under social security must file a certificate with the Internal Revenue Service indicating their desire to be covered as self-employed persons. This must be done within two years after Jan. 1, 1955. And the certificate will be effective for a taxable year only if it is filed on or before the due date for filing the income tax report of that year. That means that those ministers or members of religious orders who want to begin earning their social security next January will file a certificate on or before April 15, 1956.

Then, when they pay the income tax on their 1955 earnings which is due April 15, 1956 they will also make a three percent self-employment tax contribution for social security. They will pay the social security tax on their yearly net earnings from $400 to $4,200. And they will report these earnings for social security purposes as self-employment income on a special schedule which will be a part of their regular income tax Form 1040.

Those clergymen who become eligible to begin earning their old-age and survivors insurance will want to get their social security cards if they have never had them. Or, if they have lost their social security cards, they should ask for the same number. This card is the identification with the social security people as well as the key to future benefit payments. The card can be obtained from the near-men, too, have learned that toboggans, jeeps, snowshoes, skis and sleds solve the problem of getting through deep snows and over rough terrain to fill feeders such preservation missions require determination and fortitude, but the pay-off is inward satisfaction difficult to appraise or measure.

Timely Reminders from The Pennsylvania State University College of Agriculture

Prevent Dark Rings — Help prevent dark rings from forming around the yolk by hard-cooking eggs this way. Place them in cold water. When the water simmers, start timing. Simmer 15 to 20 minutes. Plunge eggs into cold water for a few minutes before removing the shell.

Avoid Overloading — Clothes in your washing machine should be able to move freely in the water. Otherwise the machine labors under strain and the clothes are poorly washed.

Use Moderate Heat — Use even, moderate heat for cooking eggs. Eggs cooked this way are tender. High temperatures and long cooking tend to toughen them.

Choose Snowsuit — For young children choose a snowsuit of lightweight, water-repellent fabric insulated with a 100 percent wool lining. Fabrics that are tightly woven and water repellent resist wind and moisture as well as soil and stains.
