CHEERLEADERS

The Student Body of Hempfield High School recently picked this year cheerleaders. Those chosen were Ninth grade: Sue Bender, Barbara Hackman and Gretchen Hug; Tenth grade, Janet Charles, Jean Bomberger and Jackie Miller; Eleventh grade, Corrine Charles, Yvonne Gochnaver and Shirley Habecker and Virginia Dissinger.

WINS J-C CONTEST

The local Jr. Chamber of Commerce of Landisville again sponsored the "I speak for Democracy" Contest. The ten contestants this year were: Joan Cluck, Philip Swarr, Ruth Coyle, Barbara Nolt, Jane Young, Sherry Kennel, Doris Shirk, Phoebe Merkle, Reh Kugler, Barbara Fasnacht. Tests were original and presented by the contestants themselves. The judges, Mrs. Ferris McDonald, Mrs. Robert Horst and Mrs. Dean Lowry, found it hard to determine a winner, but they came up with Barbara Nolt. Her speech will be recorded and will represent Hempfield at the State Contest.

APPEAR ON TV

December 13 four seniors from Hempfield appeared on WGAL-TV's "College of the Air Forum". The seniors were Philip Holtzapple, Nelson Denlinger, Daneen Webb and Donald Emrich. Each week on Monday students from different schools direct questions to a representative from a local college. The college represented on Dec. 13 was Lebanon Valley College. Questions on the subject of college requirements, opportunities for scholarship, Courses offered, costs and other topics related to the field of high education.

WINS OUTDOOR DECORATING CONTEST

The home of Lester Harnish, Brandt Blvd. won the first prize as the most beautiful in the outdoor Christmas display for the Landisville-Salunga area.

The contest was sponsored by the Landisville-Salunga Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Landisville Lions Club. Second prize in the same division was won by the home of Raymond Sweet, Stanley Ave. Other winners were: Most appealing to children, Earl Rettew, Broad St. first; Samuel Wright, Lynn Ave. second; Best Nativity scene, Richard Grotefin, Barbara Ave. first; Samuel Zerpey, Main St., Salunga, second.

First place winners were awarded $25 bonds and ribbons were given for second prizes. Judges were Mrs. Rollin C. Steinmetz, and Mrs. Thomas C. Atkins of the Art Dept. of Hempfield High School and members of the Jay Cees and the Lions.
