CROPS FOR CANNING
BRING $8.6 MILLION
TO STATE FARMERS

Production of vegetables for canning and freezing last year returned more than $8.6 million to Pennsylvania farmers.

"This cash income resulted from the harvesting in the state of about 420 million pounds of vegetables for sale to processors," explained D. G. LeLand, Pennsylvania representative of the America Can Co.

He pointed out that while this farm income from vegetables for processing did not break any records, it was slightly greater than the average for the 10-year period ending in 1952.

DeLand added that Penna. is an important producer of such processing crops as tomatoes, lima beans, snap beans and sweet corn. He explained that last year the state planted almost 58 thousand acres to these and other vegetables for canning and freezing.

Three New Sewage Plants Operating

The Sanitary Water Board has been advised of the recent placing in operation of three new sewage treatment plants and newly constructed additions to an existing plant, all of them making important contributions to the State's Clean Streams program.

Largest of the plants is the Southwest sewage treatment works in Philadelphia, built at a cost of $8 million and one of three disposal plants which will complete the sanitary cleanup in that city and a large surrounding area. The Northeast works was placed in operation some time ago and the third plant the Southeast, is nearing completion.

Another of the newly constructed plants placed in operation is at Spring Grove, York County. The population of the community is about 1,300 people and the plant is designed to treat 240,000 gallons of sewage a day. It is located along Codorus Creek.

Additions to the Bellwood plant, Blair Co., which were built to increase the degree of treatment, are now in operation. The plant is designed to serve a population of 3,000 people and to treat 600,000 gallons of sewage a day. It is located along the Little Juniata River. The last three named communities are on the Susquehanna River watershed.

The Darby Creek Joint Authority, Darby Township, Delaware Co., serving 13 municipalities, was also put in operation during the past month. It is the third and last of three sewage treatment plants built by 30 municipalities in Delaware Co., situated between Philadelphia and Chester, which with the exception of one small area, completes the sanitary cleanup in that entire section. Abatement of pollution of the lower Delaware River will be complete after the completion of the Southeast works in Philadelphia which will be the near future.

The other two authorities in Delaware Co., which placed their plants in operation within the past several months are the Nuckinipates Joint Authority, comprised of nine communities, and the central Delaware Authority, consisting of eight municipalities. Because of the terrain some of the municipalities are served by two authorities.

The communities comprising the Darby Creek Joint Authority are the townships of Darby, Haverford, Springfield, Upper Darby and the boroughs of Yeaton, Clifton Heights, Darby, Collingdale, Sharon Hill, Folcroft, Colwyn, Landsdowne and Aldan.

Five Angus
Events Scheduled

Harrisburg — Five Angus events have been scheduled this year for Eastern and Southeastern Pennsylvania, it was announced at the 1955 Farm Show.

According to Scott L. French, fieldman-secretary of the Pennsylvania Angus Association, 18 shows, sales and meetings will be held across the state in 1955. Two others—the Angus Breeding Cattle Show and the annual Harrisburg Dinner Meeting — were held during the state's great indoor agricultural exposition.

"We intend to make good beef cattle more available to livestock and general farmers," Mr. French stated. "This expanded program is our first step in that direction."

Already scheduled for Eastern and Southeastern Pennsylvania are the following: Millard Farms Production Sale, Annville, April 4; Brandywine Eighth Annual Spring Sale, Guernsey Sales Pavilion, Lancaster, May 7; Penna. State Angus Show, Reading Fair, Reading, Sept. 15; Brandywine Feeder Calf Sale, New Holland Sales Stable, New Holland, Oct. 15; and Penna. Keystone Show and Sale, Guernsey Sales Pavilion, Lancaster, October 22.
