INCOME TAX FACTS No. 4

Get All Exemptions for Yourself and Dependents

(This is one of a series of articles on income tax changes. The articles are based on information provided by the American Institute of Accountants and the Pennsylvania Institute of Certified Public Accountants.)

Many taxpayers cheat themselves on their personal exemptions. Of course, there are 6.5 ers who get into trouble by claiming too many exemptions - like the cowboy who claimed an exemption for his horse because he loved him like a brother.

The rules for a taxpayer's own exemptions are the same this year as last year, but the new tax law has made it easier to get exemptions for dependents.

Your Own Exemptions

Here's how to count your exemptions (each one takes $600 off your taxable income):
One exemption for yourself, two if you are 65 or over, two if you are blind, three if you are both 65 and blind. The same applies to your husband or wife.

If your husband or wife died during 1954 you can file a joint return claiming the exemptions including those for age or blindness, to which the deceased would have been entitled at the time of death.

Exemptions for Dependents

One exemption of $600 can be taken for each person who fits the definition of a dependent. This $600 is not doubled for age or blindness, as in the case of your personal exemption. The dependent may also qualify. To count for an exemption, the dependent must:

1. Have less than $600 gross income for 1954 (except that under the new law this does not apply to your child if he is under 19 or is a full-time student).
2. Have received more than half his support from you. (New Law: Do not include scholarships in figuring total cost of support. The dependent may also qualify even though no one person furnished more than half of his support. If a group of persons who would otherwise be able to claim the dependent contributed more than half, any member of the group who contributed at least 10% may claim the dependent if all others who contributed 10% or more have signed a declaration that they will not claim the deduction.)

Children and Disabled Dependents

Don't forget that a baby born anytime up to midnight December 31 counts as a full exemption. A new feature this year is a deduction of as much as $600 for care of a dependent while the breadwinner is working. This deduction is available to mothers, widowers, divorced and legally separated persons, who are allowed to deduct expenses up to $600 for the care of a son, daughter, stepson or stepdaughter under 12 (or any dependent who is mentally or physically incapacitated).

A working wife is entitled to this deduction if her husband is physically or mentally incapable of providing support. Where the husband is not disabled, the working wife may also take a deduction if a joint return is filed, except that the $600 limit is reduced by the amount the couple's gross income exceeds $4,500.

Additional Information

Be sure to read the official instructions. You can also get help from the Internal Revenue Service, which urges you to consult only qualified advisers.
