

OWL LAFFS

BY A WISE OWL

An East Main Street man went to a psychiatrist for treatments lately, and the fellow told him: "Your main trouble is that you allow yourself to be henpecked. Now you've got to do as I say. Go home, look your wife right in the eye; and right away, and from now on, always let her know YOU'RE THE BOSS!"

So H - - - went home, slammed the door so that the house almost fell down, grabbed the wife roughly by the shoulders, and snarled: "From now on you're gonna take orders from me. You're gonna get my supper on the table this minute, and then go upstairs to lay out my clothes. And tonight I'm going out, and who's goin' with me? Nobody! At least it won't be you! And who do you think is gonna dress me in my tuxedo and black tie?"

"The undertaker," promised the wife.

Then there was the absent-minded professor who sent his wife to the bank and kissed his money goodbye. - - - On second thought maybe he wasn't so absent-minded.

Abe Mumma was telling the fellows down at Geibe's Service station about the wonderful dream he had last night. He dreamed he was out on Lake Arrowhead, alone in a canoe with Marilyn Monroe.

"What a dream," said Geibe. "How did it come out?"

Abe, "Wonderful, I landed an eight-pound bass."

There's been quite a ruckus recently because women have never had their faces on the paper money. - - - Well, they sure know how to get their hands on it.

Money is such a wonderful thing it's a mistake to waste it on adults.

While visiting home last Sunday, I overheard my Ma ask: "Is that really true, Pa? Do you remember our weddin' day just like it was yesterday?"

And Pa replied: "I certainly do, Ma. - - - AND YOU KNOW WHAT A LOUSY DAY YESTERDAY WAS!"

Last night when I told a friend of mine that his wife is telling everybody that he can't keep her in clothes, he quickly said: "That's nothing. I bought her a home and I can't keep her in that either."

A West Main teenager asked his Dad, if money talks, how come we don't hear it?

Dad: "That, child, is because money goes faster than sound."

Do you know that one of my neighbors beats his wife up every morning - - - Yep, he gets up at 7 and she gets up at 10.

The other evening I overheard a neighbor tell his wife that she was a very pretty girl. Not being in a very good mood, she replied: "You'd say so even if you didn't think so." "Sure," he said, "and you'd think so even if I didn't say so."

The trouble is that when you ask her to say the word which will make you the happiest man in the world, she says the wrong word - "yes".

During last summer's heat wave, a church in a local town put this on the bulletin board - "You think it's hot here?"

Ronnie Garlin has a new name for his girlfriend.

When I asked him to tell me, he answered: "Baseball."

And when I asked why, he

MOTORISTS URGED TO PLAY IT SAFE OVER HOLIDAYS

A safer and saner Fourth of July holiday weekend was called for yesterday by Keystone Automobile Club in an urgent appeal to motorists everywhere to "play it safe," particularly on the highways.

Many millions of Americans will be planning days of fun and frolic on automobile trips, picnics and other outings of every conceivable variety. So, once again, as on every holiday weekend, roads to anywhere and everywhere will be clogged to the saturation point with cars and people.

"The great danger facing the motoring public is obvious and real," declared Edward P. Curran, Safety Director of the Club. "It is greater than ever this year because of the greatly increased number of cars on the roads and because the highways no longer can safely accommodate the tremendous flow of motor vehicles pleasurebound on holidays.

"Carelessness, and recklessness and disregard of rights of others can make the upcoming Fourth of July weekend a black mark on the calendar. The spectre of injury and death will be lessened only if the individual driver accepts his obvious responsibility for the safety of himself and others, curbs impatience and practices courtesy drives a mechanically perfect car, and observes to the letter every rule of the road for sensible and safe driving.

"Forbidding the sale and use of dangerous fireworks in the Fourth of July celebrations was a great forward step in safety. A far greater forward step toward a really safe and sane holiday would be a concerted nationwide effort by very motorists to do his part in avoiding and preventing highway accidents. Playing it safe then indeed would be playing it smart."

P. P. & L. MAKES $6,500 GIFT TO DICKINSON

Carlisle, Pa. — A gift of $6,500 by the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company to Dickinson College for its current $2,000,000 building program was announced this week by Dr. William W. Edell, president of the college.

The program provides for a men's dormitory, a science hall and a student union building with auditorium and little theatre. The dormitory is under construction and will be completed in the Fall. Work on student union will begin in the near future, it was announced.

The gift was turned over to the college by John S. Davidson, vice president of the Harrisburg Division of the P. P. & L., and Herbert T. Senseman, manager of the company's Cumberland District with offices in Carlisle.

"The Pennsylvania Power and Light Company," Senseman said, "is interested in the welfare of worthy institutions within its service territory. As a local institution ourselves, we are pleased to aid another which has been making such a great contribution to our community and the nation for so long a time."

Dr. Edell saw the gift as further evidence of the increasing awareness by industry and business of the needs of institutions of higher education, particularly by the independent liberal arts colleges like Dickinson.

Seeks Municipal Firing Ranges For Youngsters

The Vision Conservation Institute of Pennsylvania today urged immediate Legislative approval for a bill they claim will save the eyesight of hundreds of children.

Introduced last February 15, the measure proposed by Representatives George J. Sarraf and Walter D. Kaymk of Pittsburgh would prohibit the retail sale of air rifles in Pennsylvania, but would authorize municipally owned and operated firing ranges where youngsters would be able to pepper away at targets under proper supervision to their hearts' content.

Since its introduction, the bill has rested in Committee hands, and all attempts to dislodge it thus far have been unsuccessful.

"Every day the Committee fails to release this bill for consideration by the Legislature as a whole, hundreds of children are struck by air rifle pellets which could maim them permanently," said Dr. Milton Eger, Aliquippa optometrist and president of the Vision Conservation Institute. "It is only a miracle that more youngsters don't suffer the fate of the young Waynesburg boy who a few days ago nearly lost the use of one eye for life when a BB gun went off accidentally."

Dr. Eger said the Institute plans to request immediate action on the bill from Rep Harold A. Yetzer, Burks County, chairman of the committee that has thus far failed to bring it to a vote.

"If action isn't forthcoming immediately, we will take it to the people," Dr. Eger said. The Vision Conservation Institute, sponsored by the optometric profession, includes many others who have the visual health of Pennsylvania children at heart. "We can and will make it a public issue that the legislature can no longer afford to ignore," Dr. Eger said.

The Vision Conservation Institute of Pennsylvania is a newly formed organization in the visual care field which is devoted to the promotion of visual health throughout the state.
