Drug Addiction Problem Negligible Among Youngsters

Harrisburg -PNS- Drug addiction among school children Main & Vine in Pennsylvania - serious in some states - continues to be School Student Government in work force to a total of 3,679- negligible throughout the Keystone State.

A check on the problem by Penna. News Service reveals STUDEBAKER - PACKARD that officials in general feel the problem is pretty well licked and under control in the Com-RHEEMS, Phone E-town 7-1230 monwealth's schools.

Interestingly this is in spite of what some critics are prone to say regarding juvenile delinquency which they contend has taken an alarming and serious E-TOWN increase in recent years. A spokesman for the Penna

State Police said in his opinion he thought the problem of ju venile drug addiction in the Keystone State is well under control, recalling that a threedepartment investigation of the drug problem a few years ago produced little evidence of any organized drug activities.

The State Department of Health's Narcotic Drug Control Division backs up the contention of State Police. A spokesman there pointed out that while complaints are often made naming certain school children as being addicts, when run down by enforcement officers, the MANHEIM complaints are usually found to be groundless - the work oftimes of cranks or pranksters.

hay is done, with growth reported as fairly heavy and rather hard to cure. Pastures continue to furnish some feed.

The planting of barley and winter oats is nearing completion in the south and the seeding of winter wheat is well underway. On the whole most $ 985 early plantings of winter grains have excellent stands and a good start.

The harvest of potatoes is $ 885 well along, and the harvesting of late apples has progressed well - most fruit being of good color and fairly high quality. Dependable Vegetables in the fresh market are generally finished.
