Manheim Boy Selected For Polio Poster

Five year old Charles W. Harsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther L. Harsh, 311 Cherry Street, Manheim, was selected as the Lancaster Polio Poster Boy for 1956, from a large list of polio victims, by the executive committee of the Lancaster County Chapter for Infantile Paralysis, according to Christian C. Rudy, chapter chairman, who made the announcement.

As Lancaster's 1956 Polio Poster Boy, the young boy's picture will appear on thousands of posters and cards which will be placed in store windows and business places throughout the city and county reminding the public of the ravages and crippling of polio and the need for full support of the March of Dimes and Dollars. Charles will also appear at many public meetings and gatherings during the campaign.

Born Feb. 2, 1950, the boy was stricken with polio on Oct. 14, 1954 and was admitted to the polio unit of the Lancaster General Hospital the next day. Little Charles was a patient in the polio unit until January 15, 1955 - a period of 93 days.

On admission, the youngster was suffering from the paralyzing type of polio and it was at first feared that he would be very badly crippled. Expert nursing and therapy care reduced his crippling effects to the point that today he must wear a leg and hip brace on his left leg.

The case of Charles Harsh is a typical case which is recorded on the records of the Lancaster County Chapter for Infantile Paralysis, for although there was hospitalization insurance for the boy - it paid only a relatively small part of the hospital bill - to be exact $287.00 of a total bill of $1,429.00. The Lancaster Chapter paid the difference amounting to $1,142.00. Then there was the matter of physical therapy treatments needed after the boy was discharged and went home; and there were braces and special shoes and further examinations needed - all of which amounted to $1,529.25, which the Chapter paid.

The lad's father, an employee of the Hershey Machine and Foundry Company a Division of the Fuller Company at Manheim is high in his praises for what the Lancaster Chapter has done for his son and his family and he has made a personal appeal to his fellow workers, friends and neighbors to give their full support to the 1956 March of Dimes and Dollars. Charles has two older brothers, Ronald and Timothy and two younger sisters, Lois Ann and Cindy Sharon. He is a member of the morning section of the kindergarten of the H. C. Burgard public school and a member of the Trinity Evangelical Congregational Church Sunday School.

At the present time members have not decided where in the building they will create the additional room.

The group voted to purchase a new generator system for the emergency lighting in the school. Jay Musser was named to head the committee.

Frank Walter and Clyde Gerberich, Jr. were named to the finance committee and Jay Musser, the property committee. A. D. Seiler, president, was in charge of the meeting.

JUNIORS CHOOSE PLAY

"Finders Creepers" has been chosen as the Junior Class play for Donegal High School. The comedy-mystery will be presented in the school auditorium March 9 and 10. Mrs. Paul Gingrich will direct the production.

LANCASTER'S 1956 POLIO POSTER BOY—Pictured here is 5 year old Charles W. Harsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther L. Harsh, 311 Cherry street, Manheim, who was selected as the 1956 Poster Boy for this year's March of Dimes and Dollars here in Lancaster. Stricken October 14, 1954, the boy was a patient in the polio unit of the Lancaster General Hospital for 93 days and although there was hospitalization insurance to help pay some of the expenses, the local chapter had to pay $1,529.25 which was over and above what the boy's insurance paid for his care. The crippling disease left its mark on the young boy as is shown here - having to wear a leg and hip brace on his left leg. He continues to receive physical therapy treatments all of which are being paid for by the Lancaster Chapter.

Career Book Is Compiled By Students

In conjunction with English class work, sixty-two seniors at the Donegal High School are compiling a career book. Two sections of the twelfth grade are including information in the book about businesses and industries in Lancaster, Mount Joy, Marietta and Maytown. These students first called employers for appointments. They completed interviews with sixty-two businessmen during the holiday vacation. With the information that they received from the businessmen, they will include the type of business, number of employees, and type of experience necessary for the positions, plus other important individual information about the various businesses.

The students who are majoring in the general course, vocational, industrial arts, home economics and clerical courses are preparing the book and students in the commercial course will type it. Committees from the two classes will put the book together.

Copies of the completed book will be placed in the guidance department, office, library and commercial department for use in the placement of graduating students. Mrs. Paul Gingrich is adviser for the project.
