OWL LAFFS

BY A WISE OWL

How can an evening of dinner and a show get so complicated? What started out to be dinner and a show in Philadelphia for Dr. and Mrs. Michael Gratch of Maytown, recently turned out to be a comedy. Knowing that they only had 5 minutes until curtain time, the couple rushed to the theatre from their dinner at Bookbinders. Arriving at the theatre, they presented the usher their tickets for two reserved seats.

But — there were two girls already in the seats. After much deliberation, the group realized that the Gratches were in the wrong theatre. So they rushed to the second theatre, retiring to their seats and enjoyed the play. But — since they were again rushed for train time, they left the play 5 minutes before its completion and rushed to the station only to see the 11:00 p. m. train's rear lights fading in the distance. The couple then had to wait until 1:00 a. m. for the next train back to Lancaster.

Here's a little poem sent me:
Women's faults are many,
Men have only two:
Everything they say
And everything they do.

A few nights ago, a fellow who doesn't care to have his name mentioned, and who is a pretty heavy drinker of liquor, dropped in at a local Deacon's home. The deacon had known the man for a long time, and he wanted to help him. Accordingly, he thought he'd do him a favor and demonstrate the evil of drink by actual experience.

He put 2 glasses on the table. Into one, he poured water, and into the other he poured some liquor. Then he brought out 2 squirmy worms that he had procured for the experiment. The deacon then dropped one worm in the water and the other in the liquor. No sooner was the worm in the liquor than it puckered up into a shrivelled mass and fell dead to the bottom of the glass. The other worm in the water was swimming about and enjoying the bath.

"Well," the deacon said to him, "you see what happened to the worm in the liquor. Does that prove anything to you?"
The man nodded and said: "You betcha." "It proves that, if you drink liquor, you won't have worms!"

"Red" Metzler is telling the story about a Scotch friend of his on Marietta St. who wanted to donate some money to the March of Dimes drive, and wishing to remain anonymous, didn't sign his name to the check!

A friend of mine who lives in the East Ward has a great habit of teasing his wife. He took her out riding in their car not long ago and met up with a farmer driving a span of mules. Just as they were about to pass the farmer's rig the mules turned their heads toward the auto and brayed vociferously.
Turning to his wife the man remarked: "Relative of yours, I suppose?"
"Yes," agreed his spouse, sweetly, "by marriage."

Taking all in all, you'd think a bigamist wouldn't have to be taken into court — after what's a heavier penalty than having 2 mothers-in-law?

CONTEST

ants.
This week is known as "high-gear" Week—one of the most important of the entire campaign. For the next several days contestants have the opportunity to swell vote totals by leaps and bounds by securing second payments to advance subscriptions to the full five year limit.
Many people who have subscribed for one year might be interested to know how they can further help their favorite contestant. This can be done very easily by giving your favorite contestant the balance toward a five-year subscription. The votes turned in this way are known as "extension" votes and an extended subscription for the balance of the full five-year limit will allow the contestant the MAXIMUM votes.
The race is close. The final outcome will be a real test of last minute "hustling." Go after those subscriptions; tap every source you can think of in a close race, the little things count—a few moments wasted, or the difference of a few thousand votes can be a deciding factor.
"Many of us spend half our time wishing for the things we could have if we didn't spend so much time wishing for them." Lots of people have dreamed how nice it would be to call on their friends in a shiny new Chevrolet. They are the "wishers." But somewhere in this area, there is a person who will make his or her dream come true—who will make his or her dream come true—who will win the Chevrolet? He or she is the supreme go-getter. The sort of person who realize the value of time.
"NOTHING is longer, since it is the measure of eternity."
"Nothing is shorter, since it is insufficient for the accomplishment of your projects."
"Nothing is more slow to him who expects; nothing more rapid to him who enjoys."
"All men neglect it; all regret the loss of it; nothing can be done about it."
"Time is man's most precious asset."
Friends of contestants, you have of course, wished your favorite well. You have encouraged him or her in a small way but have you extended your subscription to the "full limit" in helping them realize their highest hopes and ambition?
The best way to win a friend is to be one!

HONORED BY OPTIMISTS
Two Mount Joy Eagles were among the group of eighteen countians who were honored by the Lancaster Optimist Club for achieving the goal within the past year. Robert Buchenauer was present at the luncheon and received a framed citation and a miniature Eagle Scout insignia pin. Also honored, but absent from the luncheon, was Ronald Schofield.

Letters To The Editor

The Bulletin
East Main St.
Mount Joy, Penna.

Dear Sir:
Through the kindness of the people of Lancaster County, The Salvation Army has been able to assist approximately 297 families. Also, 85 additional baskets were packed and distributed from foodstuffs sent in from churches, schools, industrial plants, etc. Over 2000 toys were also given to needy children.

POLICE VIOLATIONS

Two Mount Joy men were among the group of 40 prosecuted last week by state police; Robert W. Seibert, failure to stop for a red traffic light; and Henry Reist, speeding.

We of The Salvation Army extend to the citizens of your community our sincere thanks. Sincerely yours,
John S. Bishop, Brigadier

Touch of luxury... for pennies!

Less than you pay for the daily papers puts an extension telephone within your reach. In bedroom, kitchen, den, few of the comforts of home cost so little, fit today's relaxed living so well. Extension telephones are one item for a growing list of telephone service extras offered by Independent companies. To America's 5,000 Independents, making telephone service more convenient... more useful in every way... is just as important as providing it.
