

Spring Blossoms Expected On Schedule

Harrisburg -PNS- Provided weather conditions are favorable, thousands of acres of cherry, peach and apple blossoms will be putting on their annual beauty show the latter part of next month, the Department of Agriculture noted this week.

First reports from the southeastern commercial fruit growing areas of the state indicate that blossoming this year should be just about on schedule.

Many cherry, peach and apple orchards, each with more than 100 acres of trees, can be seen at blossom time in the Adams-Franklin-York, the Lehigh-Berks and later in the Erie County fruit belts.

Fruit prospects at the moment look fairly favorable, observers say, although growers will be on the anxious seat until about the middle of May, recalling serious damage from freezing weather in late April and early May in some other years.

Cold weather in some sections during the early part of March retarded bud formation on some fruit trees, which may have a tendency to escape freeze damage should a quick snap appear in the immediate future.

Fruit blossom time each year becomes a bigger and bigger spectacle for Pennsylvanians to view - some families even planning vacations around that time. This year is not expected to be any exception, the department believes.

Public Schools Receive Praise For Traffic Safety

Harrisburg -PNS- Pennsylvania's public schools this week drew the commendation of the State Department of Public Instruction for their contribution to community traffic safety.

Said a spokesman for the department: "We believe that our children do a pretty good job as pedestrians, especially on their way to and from school each day. Most teachers devote time to the traffic safety problem, and help children develop safe practices for walking and riding bicycles."

The department noted that many of Pennsylvania's schools have had safety patrols for many years, with patrol experience "an important factor" in helping thousands of youngsters to appreciate the dangers of today's traffic.

"Our school bus drivers too have an enviable record, but are always alert to improve it still farther," the spokesman commented.

It was pointed out that thru driver education programs in the high schools, more and more young people are learning how to operate cars safely and courteously.

"The values of well-planned activities in the schools will undoubtedly help our Commonwealth to conserve its richest resources - our children and youth," he said.

Read Label On Seed Packets

Harrisburg -PNS- Seed Catalog reading time is here for farmers and backyard gardeners of the Keystone State, but at the same time a few words of caution were offered by the State Department of Agriculture.

"Packets of vegetable or grass seed may have pretty pictures on the outside but the label or tag should be read carefully because it tells what is inside," seed analysts of the department's Bureau of Plant Industry warned.

For example, they say, cheap seed may turn out to be very expensive. They point out that if a farmer buys ten bushels of seed that contains 30 percent by weight of weed seeds, that farmer is buying about seven bushels of seed and three bushels of weeds.

The State seed law requires that a label be placed on the seed bag or other container for the information of the consumer.

Seed in containers of ten or more pounds may not have more than three per cent of weed seeds - Canada thistle, bindweed and quackgrass - and may not be sold in Pennsylvania.

Presence of any noxious weeds must be stated also - dodder, wild garlic, wild onion, horsenettle and sow-thistle. All germination test dates must be within nine months of the date of sale, the department noted.
