

BY A WISE OWL

Two local East Main St. ladies, who don't care to have their names mentioned, attended a public sale Saturday. The one bid on and bought a vinegar cup. — And when the auctioneer told her that an eye washer also went with the cup, she quickly replied "she didn't need the eye washer, because her eyes weren't dirty."

CORRECTION
Last week we printed an article in this column about "Flus" Herr and his "bear hunting experience". "Flus" said everything was true, except the part where we mentioned that the bear was 7 foot tall. — He said it was 8 foot.

Saturday, "Cappy" Mumma told me he was on his way to Robert's Shop to buy a deep freeze, to be sure he'd have plenty space for this season's trout catch.

An irate Rapho farmer was waiting by the gate for his two hour overdue farm hand, and when the helper appeared he asked him why he was so late getting home. "Well, Sir," said his hired hand, "I picked up the deacon and gave him a lift on my way home, and from then on them mules didn't understand a word I said."

The same week that hired hand received fifty cents too much in his pay envelope but he didn't say a word. During the week the farmer noticed his mistake, and on the next pay day deducted fifty cents.

"Excuse me, sir," said the hired man, "I'm fifty cents short this week."
"You didn't complain last week," said the farmer.
"No, sir," said the helper. "I figured I'd overlook one mistake, but when it happens twice, then it's time to say something."

As a small Donegal Street boy was watching his mother smearing those greases on her face. He asked, "What's that for, Mummy?"
"To make myself beautiful," she replied. Then she took tissues and wiped off the grease.
"Hmm," said the boy. "It didn't work, did it?"

I understand that "Clay" Newcomer is one of the best salesman Clarence Newcomer ever had. The story goes that he sold six milking machines to a farmer who only had one cow - - and then took the cow as a down payment on the machines.

A tourist driving through the Green Hills noticed a farmer and his little daughter sitting under a tree. The tourist pulled up alongside and admired the little girl.
"What do you call her?" he asked the farmer.
"Amalasynta," the farmer replied.
"Isn't that a rather long name?"
The farmer looked at the tourist with contempt. "Listen, we're not city folks - we've got time."

My wife took our car to a local garage for a check-up. When the mechanic told her there was a short circuit in the wiring, she said, "Well, for goodness' sake, lengthen it."

Did you hear the one about the goose flying north for the summer who flew past a drive-in showing a horror movie and was so frightened he got people-pimples.

Procedure For Fire Police When Directing Traffic At Fires—Emergencies

When called to the scene of fire or any other emergency in his community, the Fire Policeman should remember that the important thing is to get the injured person to a hospital as quickly as possible, without violating any existing traffic laws. Although neatness is a good quality, speed and common sense are the most important factors when called on to give First Aid at the scene of an accident. The Fire Policeman is not competing for prizes for the best tied square knot and etc. He is trying to save a life. A live person with a dirty bandage is worth more than a dozen dead victims with nice clear bandages and all knots tied perfectly.

POLITICAL POLITICAL

AN OPEN LETTER!

The Republican Party of Pennsylvania has shown that it has the true interest of the people foremost in its thinking in its unflinching opposition to Governor Leader's wage tax.

We have won the battle this year but it will be only a temporary victory unless we keep the Republican Party strong. Governor Leader will never give up his fight to impose his wage tax on the people of Pennsylvania.

If the Governor can keep control of the House of Representatives and take over the Senate of Pennsylvania in this year's elections, the Leader wage tax will become a certainty.

THIS MUST NOT HAPPEN

That is why experience counts in this fight. Keep the winning team on the firing line in Harrisburg by renominating and re-electing the Republican members, who have fought so hard and so consistently for you.

On April 24, put your X after the names of:
Baker Royer
Norman Wood
Edwin D. Eshleman

These are men of Experience. They deserve the support of every loyal Republican for what they have done for you.

Endorsed by the Regular Republican Primary Committee.
