"In God We Trust" A Story Of Our National Motto

The story of the motto, "In God We Trust," as told in a leaflet distributed by the Chase Manhattan Bank's Museum of Monies of the World, is as follows:

The Rev. Mr. Watkinson was troubled. In his small parish at Ridleyville, Pa., he brooded over the low ebb of Union fortunes after Fort Sumpter and Bull Run. He deplored the godlessness of a nation seven months in civil war.

One cheerless November day in 1861, he sat down at the antique desk in his rectory and wrote a letter of singular eloquence to the Secretary of the Treasury.

"One fact touching our currency has hitherto been seriously overlooked," he wrote. "I mean the recognition of the Almighty God in some form in our coins. What if our Republic were now shattered beyond reconstruction? Would not the antiquaries of succeeding centuries rightly reason from our past that we were a heathen nation?"

The Secretary of the Treasury was Salmon P. Chase, one of Lincoln's ablest cabinet members. Later he was to become Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, and it was in his honor that the Chase National Bank of the City of New York was named in 1877.

The Secretary, deep in problems of war financing, read this letter from the Rev. Mr. Watkinson and promptly recognized the merit of his plea. Within a week he had dispatched a note to the Director of the Mint in Philadelphia, James Pollock.

"No nation can be strong except in the strength of God," the note read, echoing the sentiments of the clergyman, "or safe except in His defense. The trust of our people in God should be declared on our national coins. 'You will cause a device to be prepared without unnecessary delay with a motto expressing in the fewest and tersest words possible this national recognition.'"

The Director of the Mint acted quickly on the Secretary's order. Before the year was out a bronze pattern for a $10 piece with the motto, GOD, OUR TRUST had been submitted. Shortly thereafter, OUR COUNTRY, OUR GOD was suggested. But it was not until 1846 that IN GOD WE TRUST first appeared on a United States coin, a two-cent piece Salmon P. Chase himself had proposed this inscription.

This motto may have got its inspiration from the line in the STAR SPANGLED BANNER, "And this be our motto — 'In God is our trust.'"

President Theodore Roosevelt provoked a hot controversy with religious groups when, in 1907, he directed sculptor Augustus S. Gaudens to omit the motto from the new gold coins he was designing. Called "an infidel," TR vigorously defended himself. Use of "In God We Trust" on coins, he maintained, was irrelevant and dangerously close to sacrilege. Such use tended to cheapen "a beautiful and solemn sentence" and was "profoundly to be regretted."

Teddy added that he had never heard anyone speak reverently of the coin motto. On the contrary, he pointed out that through the decades of "free silver" debate the motto has been a subject of jest and ridicule, resulting in slogans like "In God we

ENGAGEMENTS

MANGANO — BRANDT
Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Brandt of 15 N. River St., Maytown, announce the engagement of their daughter, Cynthia Lee, to Matthew R. Mangano Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Mangano, 2215 Locust Road, Morton, Pa. Both are attending Kutztown State Teachers College, majoring in art education.

Pennsylvania's Governor automatically serves as chairman of the little known but powerful "Executive Board."

Trust for short weight."

Congress overruled Teddy, but did not make the motto mandatory, as is now being done, thanks mainly to several Democratic members of the Congress. (The motto, under a measure which has been recently enacted, will ultimately appear on all new coins and paper money. The first bank notes carrying the inscription will be printed when the new dies are installed by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing under its previously contemplated program for a more economical method of printing bank notes.)

References to the Diety are found on American coins of colonial days. A 1694 cent prays, "God preserve Carolina and the lords proprietors." Others ask that "God Preserve New England." A Louisiana piece blesses the name of the Lord. Utah 1849 gold pieces carry similar mottoes. English coins for centuries have referred to Dei Gratia, the Grace of God.

The Best Time To Fight A Fire Is Before It Starts

The best time to fight a fire is long before it even starts, says Carson F. Mertz, Chief of the Division of Farm and Home Safety Education, Department of Public Instruction.

"The first line of defense is a clean home and farm, fire-safe construction including a safe heating plant and fire-resistant roofing," Mertz says. "The second line of defense is farm fire-fighting equipment that should be handy and regularly checked to make sure it is in good working condition."

Mertz advises everyone to have on hand at all times these emergency items:

1. An adequate supply of water for fire trucks and portable pumps.
2. Approved fire extinguisher conveniently placed near all danger spots - the barn, machine shed, and storage tanks of gasoline and kerosene. The extinguishers should be charged when recommended by the manufacturer.
3. Garden hose and water buckets in various places in and around buildings.
4. Ladders to reach the highest roof tops and windows. And don't forget the silo.
5. A pump tank or sprayer, fire swatter, wet broom or wet burlap bags to fight field fires.

LaGrange (Ind.) Standard - A Chicago judge reports that more than 85 percent of all the criminals he has observed were non church goers.

J. Edgar Hoover reports that out of 8,000 delinquent children called to his attention, only 42 attended Sunday school regularly. Other judges as well as the files of reformatories corroborate these statistics. Irreligion is generally acknowledged as one of the major contributing factors to juvenile and teen-age crime.
