

OWL LAFFS

BY A WISE OWL

IRONY
Word has it that Sam Miller, chairman of the Mt. Joy Borough Water and Sewer Authority, fell victim the other day to the ditch digging operations in the borough. It seems that his car slipped into one of the ditches and had to be hoisted out. The report is that the ditch was filled up rather promptly.

THERE ARE LOTS OF WAYS

The boss' good wife isn't really as hard up as it might have seemed the other night. After BPW meeting, she slipped into a coat and unconcernedly made her way home. When she got home and was about to hang the coat up, she discovered she had the wrong coat.

We understand that Mrs. John Booth, the real owner, is not going to press charges, since the coat was promptly returned. Said Mrs. Boss:

"I always thought that was the dumbest thing for anyone to do."
