NEED EXTRA CAUTION DURING SHOPPING RUSH

With the Christmas spirit already in evidence to a marked degree on every Main Street and in every downtown gift-shopping center, increased vigilance and caution by all motorists and pedestrians is essential to prevent an upsurge of accidents among the crowds of shoppers.

That warning is voiced by Edward P. Curran, Safety Director of Keystone Automobile Club, in an appeal for more safety consciousness during a season when early darkness, personal preoccupation with many mental diverting things, inadvertent thoughtlessness, etc., add to the other obvious dangers.

"Pedestrians and vehicular traffic is particularly heavy right now," he said, "and it behooves all of us drivers to be extremely careful in passing through shopping districts. Care should be exercised at all intersections, because bundle-laden shoppers have a habit of doing the unexpected. Jay-Walkers, too, are found in abundance, appearing from between parked cars and ambling across busy streets preoccupied with their thoughts.

"It is a known but little appreciated fact that many of those who annually are included in Christmas shopping throngs are unused to heavy shopping chores to their members of the family. It is only natural for them to become confused and bewildered. Special pains should be taken to insure their safety.

"The annual pre-Christmas accident toll can be materially lessened through co-operation of walkers and drivers. Saving a few seconds or minutes should not be permitted to outweigh considerations of safety."

PATROLS DISCUSS BADGE

Since there were no nominations for the gold badge this week, Mary Max, last week's winner, was named to wear it for another week.

The weekly inspection was held; complaints were heard and Charles Heaps, principal announced that the patrolmen would be tested in the near future on the folding of the belts.

SEEK TO END HIGHWAY BUMPS

"Bump Free" rides on continuously reinforced concrete pavement are available now in at least five parts of the United States, according to American Iron and Steel Institute.

Many other highways may be similarly improved in the future. Research is now going forward to place the design of such roads on a sound engineering basis.

The "bump-bump-bump" effect is caused by the joints in the highways. These roads were built in segments, to allow for expansion and contraction due to temperature changes.

Engineers now believe that the joints may be unnecessary. They say that continuously reinforced concrete pavement may result in lower maintenance costs, in addition to providing smoother rides.

Indiana, Illinois, New Jersey, California and Texas are among the states that have stretches of continuously reinforced concrete pavement. The Indiana road was built in 1938, followed by Illinois and New Jersey in 1947, California in 1949 and Texas in 1951. A new stretch is being constructed in Pennsylvania.

The Committee on Reinforced Concrete Research of American Iron and Steel Institute — to sponsor research on the Pennsylvania highway, which is near York. The tests are being conducted by Lehigh University.

Mervin Brandt, Maytown, was the guest speaker at the Tuesday night meeting of the local Lions Club. He discussed world affairs. Dennis Aumont played several piano solos. Lewis Bixler, president, was in charge.
