Salk Polio Vaccine Now In Good Supply

There have been more cases of poliomyelitis occurring in Lancaster county (31 in all) in the year 1956 than have been reported in the city of Philadelphia, a total of one-age group, to allow three-fifths of all the cases reported doses of vaccine to be given in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Two cases, non-arrives. It is not definitely paralytic in character, occurred in children who had received two doses of vaccine.

No other cases received.

Notice Parents

Salk vaccine for poliomyelitis will be given free of charge to children in the very near future at exactly 9:50 o'clock a. m. on Tuesday morning by deer draped over the front.

Permission blanks have been sent home to parents of the schools, and any child hunter to be back through Mount Joy that early.

HELPS! HELPS! HELPS! The Bulletin is in need of a half dozen or so copies of its November 1 publication. An unusual "run" of counter purchases that week drained the supply to the extent that now there is not even one for the permanent files.

We will be glad to pay 10 cents each — that's three cents profit — for the first dozen copies brought to the office.

Lost and Found department — This means money for someone!

While cleaning out the safe when Larmon Smith sold the Bulletin and when this editor took over, we discovered 384 checks which remain unpaid from the paper's subscription contest earlier this year. Now don't get your hopes very high for they are small amounts, but if Frances M. Long, Carol Anderson and Gerald F. Becker will stop at The Bulletin they can collect one check each.

He was embarrassed — but probably not too much! Monday noon Jay Echerly was having lunch with friends at a local restaurant.

Under negligible pressure, Jay admitted that Monday was his birthday and conversation for a time revolved around that subject.

Suddenly, the proprietress, Helen Holtzman, having overheard the chatter, with a great ceremony served the vaccine is unlimited and may

To Employ 125 People

Construction has started on a new $600,000 foundry to be built in Landisville for the Pennsylvania Malleable Iron Corporation of Lancaster.

The foundry is being constructed on a 21-acre site located at the northwest corner of the intersection of the Rt. 230 By-pass and the Reading Railroad near the Landisville intersection. The site is about 6 miles east of Mount Joy.

The new plant will consist of a one-story structure approximately 100x325 feet and will be so designed that additional units can be added. Storage sheds, railroad sidings and access roads with ample parking facilities will be provided.

The new plant will be completely equipped to produce malleable iron castings and will consist of a foundry, cleaning and sorting rooms, annealing and shipping departments with office and washroom facilities.

It is expected to be in full operation by April 1, 1957. About 125 additional men will be employed initially. To D. S. Warfel Associates, Inc. of Lancaster, are the contractors.

The corporation plans to continue its present Malleable Foundry on South Prince St. in Lancaster as well as its hardware division plant on Manheim Pike. The new construction is necessary because the Corporation has outgrown its present quarters at the South Prince St. plant, and because there is no room to expand at the present location.

The new plant virtually will duplicate the manufacturing processes conducted at the South Prince Street plant. The Lancaster plant was established in 1899 by Jacob S. Peacock and was known as the Union Lock and Hardware Co. In 1902 it became the Carbon Steel Castings Co., Inc., and in July 1953 the Pennsylvania Malleable Iron Corporation.

Officers of the Corporation are: Charles P. Smetel, president and general manager; Leo G. Enitt, vice president and treasurer; Thomas M. Blank, vice president and plant manager; Ernest F. Scola, vice-pres.; Paul M. H. Hofford, secretary; and Charles P. Smetel, Jr., assistant secretary.
