ABUNDANT LIFE

BY ORAL ROBERTS

IT'S WONDERFUL TO BE HAPPY

There is a "drive-in" eating place in one of the southern states that is very popular. One big reason for its popularity is that the boys who work there. People drive out of their way to come by to have a sandwich there, and he is always their favorite curb boy.

His employer said that he could not do without this Negro man. There is something about his attitude that is contagious. When he turns to walk toward you you feel better. He always has something happy to say and his smile and face are radiant. His love of life is so infectious that you can't help but get it into your own system because his entire life is colored with joy. Johnny has learned the secret of happiness and because of that, he makes other people happy. You have met people like him . . . they reach out with warmth and interest to someone else.

The "what am I getting out of this deal" philosophy will never work. The "me first" attitude only makes you sour—and others sour on you. "I am always right" won't work. It is much like the mother who was watching the parade. Her son got mixed up with his marching, and she turned to a neighbor and said, "Look! Everybody else is out of step but little Tommy."

Recently one of my friends was out driving. As he passed a truck he was forced to squeeze over against the truck because another car came out quickly from one of the side avenues. It irritated the driver of the truck so, that at his first opportunity, he rushed around my friend and forced him over towards the side of the road.

Up ahead was a traffic light and my friend stopped just behind the truck. He got out, walked up to the driver of the truck and what do you suppose he said?

"I am sorry, friend, for dashing over against you back there when that car came out from the side avenue. I want to apologize."

The truck driver answered quickly. "That's o.k. buddy. I acted like a heel."

Horns behind them began to blow because traffic piled up, but they took time to shake hands!

You can get along with other people. It is a must for everyone. It is important in your family and it is important in your relationship with others.

First, you must believe that others want to be friendly to you. And you must decide for yourself that others deserve your own good will. Then give it to them—and you will never lack for friends.

You want to be happy and so do I. In fact life is too short for anyone to cultivate unhappiness. But you will never be happy until you have learned to love your neighbor as yourself—meaning that you should treat your neighbor in the same way that you want him to treat you. This rule is without exception.

Therefore, put a song in your heart . . . a real tune in your whistle. Be friendly and happy! God's for us and everything just has to come out "all right!"
