Exports Set Record

Totalling an estimated $19.5 billion, U. S. exports reached a record peak in 1957 and topped the 1956 figure by 13 percent, according to the Commerce Department. Imports, at about $13 billion, showed a 2 percent gain.

Fringe Inflation

According to the U. S. Department of Commerce, between 1929 and 1956 the cost of such legally required "fringe" benefits as old-age and survivor's insurance, unemployment and workman's compensation, and the cost of private welfare benefits such as life and health insurance and pensions, rocketed from $500 million a year to a staggering $11.7 billion, and from one to six percent of total wages and salaries.

MEN NEEDED!

More men are needed for the weekly Gym Nights at the local elementary school gym each Monday night. Men of the borough and area are invited to attend the evening's recreational programs which begin at 7 p.m.
