About This Question: "I fell for this cut-rate auto insurance from a direct-writing insurance company with no independent local agent. When I had a collision loss, I found their adjuster trying to cut every corner on repairs to save the company money. Does anyone really think he saves money when he by-passes his independent local insurance agent?"

egg prices going up! Purina prices low!
This is the time to make good egg profits...

Good news is here at last—egg prices are on the way up. And more good news—the forecast is for one of the lowest Purina Chow prices in 10 years. This is a ready-made opportunity for you to make some mighty good egg money—especially if you believe in feeding your hens good feed for top egg production.

Save on Feed Cost, Too
 Still more good news—records from 10,000 Purina customers show that most poultrymen can cut feed cost per dozen by feeding Purina.

These folks who kept track and reported their results took only 4 1/2 pounds of Purina to produce each dozen eggs. That's a full 1 pound less than the U.S. average as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture. And that amounted to a saving on Purina of 5 to 7 cents a dozen.

Help Your Hens Lay More
 Now is the time to help your hens lay more of those good-priced eggs. If you're not already feeding Purina, start them on Purina Layena right away. More poultrymen—by far—feed it than any other ration, because it does help hens lay their best. And at very low cost per dozen.

No matter what size flock you have or what your grain situation may be... talk over your feeding needs with us. Let us help you start your pullets on Purina Laying Chows for lots of eggs at about 5 to 7¢ per dozen less feed cost than average.

Poultry Health Hint!—Pullets need worming before going to the laying house. Wormed birds are healthier, need less feed. And Purina Research has developed low-cost Purina Liquid Poultry Wormer for you. Just put it in the drinking water. The cost—only 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ per bird! Come in and see us soon.
