

Book on How To Sell to US

The Small Business Administration has announced the release of a new 106-page booklet entitled "U. S. Government Purchasing and Specifications Directory."

Copies of this publication are obtainable at a cost of 55 cents each through the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C.

The directory details who buys what and where in the government and lists the offices where individuals and firms interested in providing goods or services for the government can obtain or review specifications covering government purchases. It contains detailed information on how the SBA will help a small business firm in competing for government contracts and orders and tells how a small concern can have its products listed on a Government Qualified Products List.

Move Seen for U.S. Plant Safety Law

A Washington observer with his nose to the wind and his ear to the ground warns industry to be on the lookout for efforts to Federalize plant safety regulations.

Several pending bills would authorize Secretary Mitchell's Department of Labor to set up safety standards and to assume safety functions now under the jurisdiction of the states, the Coast Guard and the Public Health Service.
