FERTILIZER GOOD INVESTMENT Don't skimp on fertilizer use, says James H. Eakin, extension agronomist, because soil fertility represents one of the best investments farmers can make today. Farmers who try to save money by buying less fertilizer can reduce their income faster than they can make it. The Women's Guild is in charge. Time is 7:30 p.m.

ROCKET BY MISS SALLY SMITH

Teacher

SALLY M. SMITH Teacher

Miss Sally Smith, teacher, launched this rocket when she fired an interest in mathematics in a sixth-grade boy, thirty years ago.

Behind the genius of each person who has contributed in some real measure to today's science, technology and the arts is the kindling spark of some good teacher like Sally Smith. But, to the fifty, sixty and more teachers who work with a child, we owe much more than only inspiration given to the gifted. For included, too, in their daily task of education is instilling purpose in the disinterested... pointing out the right path to the unruly... and encouraging every youngster to greater effort.

Pennsylvania is indeed fortunate from an educational standpoint. It has teachers of the highest caliber. It has grammar and high schools that are among the nation's finest. It has a community of universities and colleges that put our state in the very forefront.

American Education Week, if nothing else, should remind us of the great and real debt we owe our teachers. In fact, in this modern day it is difficult to overstate the value of education. For we now live in a world where a high level of education is a requirement to continued national existence. Let us, as citizens, therefore recognize this debt and fully accept our responsibilities for the furtherance of American education.
