The Safe Community... Is A Better Community...

TAKE IT EASY—

Is Reaching Your Destination Worth The Cost Of Someone's Life?

Too many drivers think speed limits apply only to the other fellow. Speeders think they alone are the losers of an accident that results because of their speed. They forget these important points: The speeder has less time to avoid an accident. A mishap in which a speeding car is involved is more likely to be a fatal accident — death perhaps, for some innocent victim.

Keeping your distance keeps you out of costly accidents. A good rule-of-thumb to use in following cars — allow at least one vehicle length between your car and the one ahead for every ten miles per hour of speed. Increase this distance when the streets are wet or icy or driving conditions unfavorable.

Double parking is dangerous. Park only in spaces provided — next to the curb. Double parking is more than an annoying habit.

It interrupts the flow of traffic, causes many crumpled fenders (costly at today's repair prices) and ruins dispositions. Double parking, moreover is dangerous. It may involve the driver who is trying to dodge around your car in a costly accident with oncoming traffic.

To make a good turn is to do a good turn for other drivers. Making turns properly will help everyone reach his destination easily and quickly. Get into position for turning at least 150 feet before reaching the intersection, signal your intent properly and slow down gradually. Don't bully your way through lanes of auto or pedestrian traffic and don't turn suddenly from the wrong lane.

Never jump to a conclusion at a railroad crossing — it may prove to be the concluding act of your life.
