ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

REMEDY FOR FEAR

A father once took his two sons to the county fair and allowed them to spend some time on the rides. The little five year old was afraid of the high flyer. But after his father took the ride first, the child's fear was removed. He eagerly climbed into the bucket seat and waved with confidence as he whizzed by.

Life is not without fears, but these fears are removed from the child of God when he remembers that Jesus of Nazareth has gone before and met every test of life. The writer of Hebrews tells us that Jesus shared fully in all human experiences, including the things which cause fear. By virtue of being subjected to those things which induce fear, He is able to help and comfort those who are likewise exposed to them.

Just as the little boy was reassured by his father's action, we are reassured by being in close contact with Jesus and by following His example. He has such absolute mastery over circumstances that just to know Him intimately is to face life unafraid.

One evening I saw a mockingbird perched in a pine tree near my window. He was singing a loud, joyful song even though a storm was approaching. Already the limb on which he sat was being lashed furiously by the wind. But, completely unconcerned and unafraid, the little bird sang on.

The little bird was calm and unconcerned because he knew his wings were strong and that, even though the storm raged and the bough on which he sat swayed dangerously with each new gust of wind, his wings could bear him safely away from the danger and into a place of peace.

Storms oftentimes come into our lives. Some storms are mild while others are nightmares. But the severity of the storm makes no difference. Our God is all-powerful. He is our Great Protector. Nothing can harm us when we hide in the shelter of His almighty wings. Like the bird, you can remain calm despite the circumstances surrounding you. Use your spiritual power of faith and trust in God to safely carry you through each storm.

Fear is like a cold, clammy fog over your life. As in any fog, your way is uncertain, your path is dangerous. But your faith, or trust, is God's gift of sunlight that drives the fog away. This is the simplest and surest of all remedies for fear. Fear cannot live where trust is in action.
