USE A SHOPPING LIST
You invest a sizable amount of your family's income in the food you buy. That's why it pays to plan menus ahead and make a shopping list, believes Louise Hamilton, Penn State extension nutrition specialist. A shopping list can be flexible enough to permit taking advantage of unadvertised specials or weekly sales. Yet a shopping list, even a rough one, helps to check impulse buying. Unrestrained impulse buying can skyrocket the food bill.

One of these days, as a condition in accepting a scholarship, some applicants will demand that the college guarantee on graduation a job at $10,000 a year.

Floor Protector

TOUGH on the floor and rug are a baby's rocker, bouncing chair and similar playthings. However, there's an easy way to protect a floor or floor covering. Simply take a panel of Masonite 1/4" Tempered Presdwood, available at lumber yards, round the corners and slightly bevel the edges with a sandblock, sander or file, and you'll have a protecting base for baby's frolics. This panel is wonderful for little children to be around, as it has no splinters and its surface is extremely smooth. Also, it's moisture-resistant and easily kept clean. When the baby's in the high chair, slip the Masonite mat under it, too. Spilled food won't hurt it a bit.
